WEAR MASKS EVEN AT HOME, GOVT SAYS AMID COVID SURGE

It is high time people followed Covid-appropriate behaviour inside their homes as well, says NITI Aayog member (health) Dr V K Paul

DON'T STEP OUTSIDE, DON'T INVITE GUESTS

The statement came days after a new assessment published in The Lancet said there is consistent, strong evidence to prove that the SARS-CoV-2 virus, which is behind Covid-19, is predominantly transmitted through the air. Paul added that people should avoid stepping out of their houses unnecessarily and also not invite guests at home | P9

NO MASK MEANS 90% RISK OF INFECTION

- "The way the infection has spread, it will be better if we wear mask inside our homes if we're sitting with someone," Dr Paul said
- "If the mask is not worn properly, there is 90% chance an infected patient can transfer the virus to an uninfected person," said Lav Agarwal, joint secretary, Ministry of Health and Family Welfare

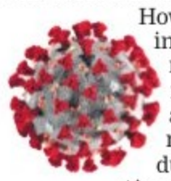
14-day Corona Curfew in K'taka, 4-hr daily breather

Restrictions come into effect from today evening, Chief Minister says it might be extended if Covid-19 cases don't come under control; Night curbs to continue

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

OVERWHELMED by the surge in the number of Covid-19 cases, the Karnataka Government has ordered a 14-day 'Corona Curfew' across the state, starting Tuesday evening. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa, at a press conference after a cabinet meeting on Monday, announced that all commercial activities will remain prohibited, much like how it is during the weekend curfew in the state currently.



However, all manufacturing units — except garments factories — agricultural production and auxiliary units, medical supplies production and construction activities will be exempted from the curfew. The CM was careful not to use the term 'lockdown' and, instead, termed it as additional restrictions to contain the pandemic.

"Bengaluru's Covid-19 numbers are overtaking Maharashtra's, and we have to take tough measures to contain the pandemic. It has been decided that starting Tuesday evening, there will be 14 days of strict restrictions on all commercial activities. No public transport will be allowed, but movement of cargo and goods vehicles will not be hindered. Shops selling groceries, milk, meat and other essentials will be allowed to open between 6 am and 10 am every day. Night curfew, which is already in place between 9 am and 6 am, will continue. If cases do not come under control, then we may have to extend these restrictions for another week," Yediyurappa said. P4

Bengal has highest case spike rate now

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AT 9.5%, poll-bound West Bengal has the highest Covid-19 case growth in the country now, data shared by the Union Health Ministry showed.

It was followed by Karnataka, which has a near explosive growth rate of 9%, while Delhi, reeling under a huge medical oxygen crisis, has the second lowest growth rate at 1.5% after Maharashtra (0.5%), among the surge states. And at about 50%, Bengal's capital Kolkata now has the highest test positivity rate.

The stark West Bengal data showed a mirror to the Election Commission of India that till recently chose to ignore all violations of Covid-appropriate behaviour in the run-up to the eight-phase elections in the state. Despite massive mask-less political rallies that created an uproar, the Electiomn Commission tried to wish them away till last week when it got a stinker from the Calcutta High Court and was forced to act.

India, now the worst-hit in the pandemic globally, has been reporting nearly 1,500 or more daily deaths since April 20. On Sunday, the highest 2,812 fatalities were recorded. There are also concerns that the fatality count is being majorly undercounted in most cities and towns.

The country now has 28,13,656 active cases, of which 3,52,991 were registered in the last 24 hours, but the Centre has not disclosed the number of people hospitalised, on oxygen support, in ICUs or those on ventilators.

In a Health Ministry press briefing on Monday, several government authorities, including Dr V K Paul, member, Niti Aayog and Randeep Guleria, director, AIIMS Delhi, stressed that no healthcare infrastructure in the world can take the load of such huge numbers. Both Paul and Guleria, senior members of the national Covid-19 task force, urged patients to follow home isolation protocols unless hospitalisation is absolutely required.

'ECI responsible for second wave'; HC threatens to stop vote count

HARISH MURALI @ Chennai

CENSURING the Election Commission of India (ECI) for not stopping political parties that were deliberately abusing the Covid-19 protocol during pre-election rallies, the Madras High Court on Monday said the commission was "singularly responsible" for the second wave of the pandemic in the country. The court also warned that it would stop the counting of votes on May 2 if the poll panel didn't put in place a strict Covid-19 protocol.

When the ECI contended that it had earlier put safety measures in place, the bench orally observed, "Were you on another planet when political rallies were being held?" It further stated, "Election Commission Officers should probably be booked on murder charges."

The first bench, comprising Chief Justice Sanjib Banerjee and Justice Senthilkumar Ramamoorthy, made these observations on a plea moved by Transport Minister MR Vijayabhaskar, who sought a direction to the ECI to ensure strict adherence to safety measures to ensure fairness in the counting the votes.

Free vax for 18-44 age group in govt hospitals

ANUSHA RAVI @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA on Monday joined a list of states to announce free Covid-19 vaccines to its citizens aged between 18 and 44. Chief Minister B S Yediyurappa announced that citizens between the ages of 18 and 44 will be given free Covid-19 vaccines at government hospitals from May 1 when the fourth phase of the inoculation drive commences.

So far, 17 other states including Madhya Pradesh, Telangana, Goa and Kerala have announced free vaccines for citizens. The Karnataka Government has already placed an order for one crore doses of AstraZeneca CoviShield vaccines from Serum Institute of India, Pune.

"The Central Government is vaccinating those above the age of 45 for free and the State Government has decided to make vaccination for people between the ages 18 to 44 free," Yediyurappa said.

As on Monday morning, Karnataka had inoculated 11,78,345 citizens with both doses of the Covid-19 vaccine. All those inoculated are either front line workers or health care workers or citizens above the age of 45.

"We are witnessing a second wave of Covid-19 infections, but other countries are seeing third and fourth waves. The only way to protect ourselves is vaccination," said Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar. P4

Haven't seen my kids for a year, says O_2 tanker driver

AJITH M S @ Mysuru

Shankar Majhi, who has been driving oxygen tankers, has not seen his five daughters for a year, yet he is more concerned about the decanting of his liquid oxygen tanker, which has become more valuable than "sona". A small misstep can leave many gasping, with Covid-19 cases in a spiral in Karnataka.

Majhi has been behind the wheel of oxygen tankers for the past 20 years, but says he has never seen so much demand or done so many trips in his entire career. He and his co-driver, Mohammed Hakeekath, both from Bihar, take turns to run at least three round trips a week -- to Koppal and back -- transporting oxygen without a break.

"Many lives depend on this oxygen. There are dangers on the road and technical issues too, but a delay in reaching the destination can create many problems. In such an emergency situation, we do not even stop for tea through the entire eight-hour journey. During the decanting too, we have to be around, and until the tanker reaches the oxygen plant again, we are on our toes," he said.

"Earlier, we used to take a day's break between trips but now there is no time for that, we just take turns and rush to hospitals," he added.

Majhi, father of five daughters and a son, says that he has not met his family since the first wave of the pandemic. "I stayed back, unlike the others, during the first lockdown," he said.

'Covid pandemic resurgence could derail economy'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

COVID resurgence carries the risk of protracted restrictions and disruptions in supply chains with consequent inflationary pressures, according to the RBI.

Pandemic protocols, speedier vaccination, ramping up hospitals and ancillary capacity, and remaining resolutely focused on a post-pandemic future of strong and sustainable growth of macroeconomic and financial stability is the way forward, the central bank noted in its monthly bulletin released on Monday.

According to RBI, India's economic activity is holding up against Covid-19's renewed onslaught. With activity indicators largely remaining resilient in March and growing beyond pre-pandemic levels, it said growth outlook is bright. "If the relatively conservative growth forecast of the RBI holds, India's GDP in 2021-22 will exceed its level in the pre-pandemic year of 2019-2020," it said.

Meanwhile, retail inflation in March edged up to 5.5% but still was within the tolerance band.

We need help to handle Covid-19 situation: BBMP

Civic body appeals to NGOs, volunteers to come forward as situation 'cause of worry'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

WHILE claiming that the medical infrastructure in Bengaluru is "very good", Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta on Monday said that the rising number of cases has become a worry. "We are talking to NGOs, experts, volunteers and are asking people to come forward and help the government," he said.

Explaining the situation, Gupta told TNIE, "To augment the services, we need more doctors, paramedics and other volunteers for management of Covid Care Centres (CCCs), counselling, home isolation, contact tracing, sample collection and other services. While we are taking some on contract basis, many NGOs are also coming forward to help us."

He said one NGO had come forward to help BBMP with 40 doctors while another NGO and a hotel had come forward to manage one CCC eacjh. "Many retired people have also expressed their willingness to help, so BBMP is looking at how they can be hired and how they can help with hospitals," he said.

All those volunteers who had registered to help BBMP last year, have once again been roped in. Their services are being used for disseminating information, contact tracing and other field activities. The deployment and assigning of volunteers has been left to the zonal officials. "While some zones have less volunteers, others have more. So the zones can direct the volunteers to other areas also," he explained.

The volunteers are not just students, but people from all walks of life. Also, Wipro Foundation is helping BBMP with some slums and Step One has come forward to help with home isolation and mental health. There are many others who are getting associated, but more is required.

He added that talks with the government and private hospitals were also being intensified to get more beds and to open more CCCs. There are already 9,000 beds and every day, 1,000 more are being added. "Many are getting discharged too, but still there is a shortfall. So, if people stop interacting closely and maintain social distancing, then the spread of the virus will be controlled. They should understand that they should not go to large and crowded people. Then, the need for more beds will reduce," he noted.

Four labs fail to upload test results, closed

With the BBMP receiving many complaints over the delay in generating BU codes, delay in issuing Covid-19 swab test results and the results not being uploaded on the ICMR portal on time, an investigation was conducted and four labs were found to be violating the deadlines and orders. Under the KPME Act, the services of four labs have been suspended -- Medall Laboratory, Aarthi Scans and Labs, RV Metropolis Laboratory and BGS Global Medical College Lab. BBMP Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said the issue has also been referred to ICMR to revoke the approval they were given to conduct Covid19 tests.

Agri traders shift to Dasanapura to reduce crowding

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

THE surge in Covid cases in Karnataka, particularly Bengaluru, has made truckers from other states hesitate to transport provisions to the APMC market at Yeshwanthpur, South India's biggest agricultural market.

Also, following government orders to decongest the market, onion, garlic and potato traders relocated to Dasanapura in Nelamangala this weekend. In all, 1,980 wholesale shops employ over 2,000 workers, dealing with onion, garlic, potatoes, rice, atta, sugar, pulses, chillies, jaggery and coconuts among others.

Ramesh Chandra Lahoti, president, Bangalore Wholesale Foodgrains, said, "Of every 10 orders we place, only five trucks are willing to visit Bengaluru to deliver stocks. There is a lot of awareness on Covid this time and truckers are scared to enter the city."

Uday Shankar, Secretary, Onion Potato Merchants' Association, said that over 300 shops dealing with potato, garlic and onion have shifted to Dasanapura on Tumakuru Road.

"This is a temporary arrangement suggested by the State to reduce crowding at the yard. Since our products are perishable, there is a regular daily sale. It was done last year too during the peak of Covid crisis when we operated out of Dasanapura," he said.

Onion, garlic and potato merchants have moved as truckers from other states hesitate to transport provisions to the APMC market at Yeshwanthpur

Business has gone down after the venue was shifted and it was not convenient for traders, he said, adding that they would impress upon the government to get back to Yeshwanthpur. Onions from Chitradurga and Challakerre, garlic and potato from Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh are brought here in bags with each weighing 50 kg of produce. "A total of 55,185 bags of onion arrived today (Monday) to the Dasanapura submarket. There is an over 50 per cent reduced inflow into the city," he said.

On the migrant workforce employed at the yard, Lahoti said that unlike last time, they are not leaving the city to their hometowns. "Even here, work they get has reduced and they are aware that work would be difficult to get in their native place too. That is why there is no major exodus now," he said.

Top officials to manage water valves

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

FACED with a plethora of complaints from residents of South Bengaluru recently on reduced water supply to them, the Bengaluru Water Supply and Sewerage Board has now given the responsibility of operating major valves to senior officials in every division. The Assistant Executive Engineer and the Executive Engineer will now have the responsibility of overseeing the operation of all major valves.

The Banashankari Ground Level Reservoir, which can store up to 19.5 Million Litres of Water Per Day is the point from which Cauvery water enters the city after starting its journey from T K Halli reservoir. It caters to Padmanabha Nagar, Yediyur, Jayanagar and a few others parts of Bengaluru South, said a top official.

Despite BWSSB increasing the quantum of water pumped to the City early this month, complaints of shortage perplexed many. "Top officials visited the reservoir a couple of days ago to check if there were leakages. After assessing the water distributed, it was understood that the problem arose because of many engineers in different divisions drawing more than their allotted water for areas under their jurisdiction," he said.

"It was the valve men and Assistant Engineers who were responsible for valve operations so far. But after many complaints, we have taken this major step," another official said. This is to ensure that all areas in the City get the required amount of water, headded.

Asked if the additional 35 MLD of water being pumped could be diverted here in case of a shortage, a senior engineer said, "The extra water being pumped is mainly to distribute it to peripheral areas of the city. We are transporting water to them with a different kind of transmission design. It cannot be diverted suddenly whenever there is a shortage anywhere else."

Pvt medical colleges should reserve 75% beds, orders govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN THE wake of increasing number of Covid cases and rush in hospitals, the state government, under the Disaster Management Act, on Monday directed all private medical colleges to reserve beds for government-referred patients.

The orders, signed by Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar, who is also Chairman of the state executive committee, SDMA, stated: "75 per cent of beds in private medical college hospitals having facilities to treat Covid-19 patients shall be reserved for the treatment of patients referred by public health authorities. This will include the HDU and ICU beds both with and without ventilators."

This is apart from private hospitals, who have been directed to reserve 50 per cent of their beds, under each category, for government-referred Covid-19 patients. The state government on April 6 had directed all private hospitals to reserve 50 per cent of their beds for government referred Covid19 patients.

The order added that non- adherence or compliance will lead to action under Section 51-60 of the Disaster Management Act, 2005 apart from legal action action under Indian Penal Code and other legal provisions.

A senior official from the health department said, "Due to shortage of beds in private hospitals and they not cooperating with the government in extending their support, this was required. If need be, we will ask the government to increase the percentage of reservation in hospitals also in the days ahead."

Pvt schools seek vaccine

While welcoming government's decision of free vaccines for all, private schools are pressing for primary access to the vaccine by considering teaching and non-teaching staff as frontline warriors. The private school managements association had earlier in the day appealed to the government for free vaccines for staff of the Institutes. In an appeal, they stated that it's been an economically distressing time with no assistance from the government.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

27th April: I mentioned the Venus-Pluto pattern on Monday, the one we're just leaving behind. I should add that it's a pattern which talks about the truth, and the need for everyone to face up to and understand their deepest emotional pressures and desires. This is in line with the general astrological view that, if we know what makes us tick, we'll improve our behaviour - and change the future!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
No doubt you are busy with professional cares and concerns, and the signs suggest that you will continue to be so for some time yet. What motivates you is a desire to be respected by your peers. It's not good enough to make demands though, you actually have to come up with the goods.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
As far as romance is concerned, you can expect your mood to improve now that Venus is moving into a benevolent aspect to your sign. Your feelings may be drawn towards general romantic hopes as much as to a particular person. But I have a feeling that when the bill comes, you may pay much more than is really necessary.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You may be dreaming of wealth and riches, but while this is a positive period for conjuring up money-making schemes, it may not be the best time to put them into practice, at least not without expert advice. Unless, that is, you're completing a property deal.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
For a very long time many of you have been drawn towards artistic activities. Some of you have yet to feel this pull but, when it comes, you must go along with it as otherwise you will squander your talents. It could be the best way to focus your secret spiritual and mystical energies.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
The best advice that can be offered at the moment is to be as down-to-earth as you can, given that a great many of your current planetary patterns are emanating from practical regions of your chart. The better you grasp the details at work, the closer you'll come to achieving a long-standing ambition.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Current planetary influences are encouraging you to let go of reality and float off into a dream world. This is not the easiest thing to achieve but, if you've no pressing commitments, you could consider livening your life up a little. You never know - you could discover a whole new social scene.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You don't need telling that it's not all plain sailing at the moment, yet it is only a matter of time before you begin to see the reward for all your wonderfully splendid selfless hard work and effort. And while you're at it, don't worry about rumours. They're just that - rumours.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The answer to social irritations lies in teamwork and genuine compromise, but don't let others take you for a ride. If the direction at work is unclear you must consider all the options as carefully as possible. You have to narrow down the choices until there are just two left.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
You're in a gambling mood and a small flutter won't hurt. However, if any important deals are on the stocks it's essential to seek a second opinion. The issues are too great for any one person to handle - even you! And, however enthusiastic you are, you must carry partners along with you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Whatever you're planning at work or at home, you must start making preparations now, that is, if you haven't done so already. As soon as you begin any new venture, unexpected complications will inevitably surface. But you'll turn the tables in about ten days.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Moon's position is benevolent, so make use of your abundant advantages. Start early if you want to get the best out of inspired plans and proposals. Be aware, though, that people around you could be in a touchy mood, and that a chance remark might trigger an argument.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Work keeps your mind off minor irritations and may be the best way to earn respect from partners. If you sit around with nothing to do, you'll begin to notice other people's trivial but annoying habits. But, if you are organising social events, you should make yourself the star of the show.

BAN PUBLIC GATHERINGS, VICTORY RALLIES FOR 6 MONTHS: GOWDA TO PM

Prime Minister speaks to JDS supremo, assures him he will consider latter's suggestions

AFTER Dr Manmohan Singh, another former Prime Minister, H D Deve Gowda, has written an open letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi over the Covid-19 situation in the country. In his four-page letter, Gowda has urged a ban on all public gatherings, political rallies and post-poll victory celebrations for the next six months. In a strongly worded, yet gentlemanly letter, the JDS supremo first sought pardon and went on to suggest 16 points on vaccination, coordinated efforts and immediate need for long-term public health infrastructure investment.

"Science has to be placed above every belief we may have, and faith we follow," he said, insisting that the government had not given a clear message on the vaccine front. "The pricing of the vaccine has created a lot of confusion. Private players are talking out of turn when such an enormous public health issue threatens humanity. Pricing should be done keeping in mind the poorest in the land," Gowda insisted, asking the Union government to consider free vaccination. "All barriers of identify proof should be dropped for poor people who come forward to get themselves vaccinated. Not having access to the internet or sufficient knowledge to register on the government's vaccine portal should not become a barrier to get vaccinated," Gowda said, asking for a vaccination trial for children aged 12-15, so they can resume academic activity.

With the government yet to renew insurance for healthcare and frontline Covid workers, Gowda said it was important to update it, and extend it to Covid warriors in the private sector. Gowda suggested three months' paid leave for pregnant women government staffers, grace marks in NEET postgraduate exam for doctors who worked on the frontline, government job for a family member of a frontline worker who died due to Covid, etc.

"The virus doesn't understand political partisanship. This is a national crisis. We should fight as one nation," Gowda said, as he impressed on the government the need to rope in opposition members with administrative experience to manage the pandemic.

Corona Curfew: Industries demand buses to workplace

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

MICRO and small scale industries welcomed the State Government's decision to allow manufacturing, medical, farm and construction sectors to work during the 14-day corona curfew. As the number of Covid-19 cases continues to surge, the government on Monday announced strict measures, including Corona Curfew across the state from Tuesday night.

Karnataka Small Scale Industries Association (KASSIA) president KB Arasappa appealed to the government to operate transport corporation buses at least to and from industrial hubs as a large percentage of factory workers rely on public transport to commute to work. He also appealed to the government to permit the supply of oxygen to the industrial sector to the extent possible.

KASSIA assured the State government of total cooperation with the State Government by encouraging all industries in the MSME sector to comply with Covid guidelines and help the government arrest the surge in the number of Covid cases and restore normalcy.

FKCCI president Perikal M Sundar said they were shocked by the government's decision to impose 'corona curfew' without holding consultations with stakeholders. "The government is allowing industries to operate, but if they do not operate transport corporation buses, how will employees commute to work?" he said.

'Give relief to those hit by curfew'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Opposition Congress has demanded the State Government announce a relief package for those who will be hit by the 14-day Corona curfew that will come into force from Tuesday night.

State Congress president D K Shivakumar on Monday pointed out that without using the word 'lockdown', the government has shut everything and hence, they must announce a special package. "Let the Chief Minister take any decision, we do not have any objection. The government has failed to protect the interests of the people, but is not admitting it. Now, without using the word lockdown, they have shut down everything," Shivakumar remarked.

The KPCC chief said the government can take any steps to protect the health of people, but it should deposit money in the accounts of the poor who will be inconvenienced by its decisions.

Earlier in the day, before the government announced the Corona curfew, Shivakumar, KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed and other senior Congress leaders held discussions with industrialists, traders and people working in various sectors.

Cabinet nod for food processing scheme

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE State Cabinet on Monday gave its nod to implementing the nationwide micro food processing scheme, as proposed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, under the Atma Nirbhar Yojana. Under the scheme, processing of local food products under the one-district-one-product plan will be encouraged and setting up of units will be encouraged with tax rebates and assistance to help raise the necessary capital. Of the total Rs 492 crore earmarked for the scheme, the Union Government will contribute Rs 295 crore and the state's share will be Rs 197 crore, which will be invested over five years.

The government also decided to purchase prime land of about 122 acres near Baiyappanahalli Metro Railway Station, worth about Rs 10,000 crore, belonging to the now defunct New Government Electric Factory (NGEF). The government will buy out the 9.7 per cent stake held by Electro Holding GMBH by paying Rs 62 crore.

The cabinet also approved sale of land to the Jindal Group after a cabinet sub-committee, that was formed to look into it, okayed the proposal. The land was originally granted in 2006 and the lease period had expire. There were other objections raised in 2019.

Ironically, the BJP, which was the Opposition party when the JDS-Congress coalition government was in power, had opposed the sale of 3,667 acres of land to Jindal.

The phase 3 expansion of the Mangaluru Port, has been approved and Rs 22 crore has been allocated for pending works. The project was hanging fire for over a decade due to legal challenges. Some individuals had opposed the plan before the green bench of the Supreme Court contending that the project would cause ecological damage.

In trend reversal, people rush out of B'luru to find beds in other dists

With officials struggling to meet demand, thousands of people seeking help on social media

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @Bengaluru

IT is a reverse trend of sorts. With the number of Covid cases rising in Bengaluru, many from the city are rushing to nearby district centres to find beds, over the last few days.

Officials in Bengaluru are struggling to meet the demand for beds, ICUs, Remdesivir and even ambulances. The panic situation has triggered an exodus from the city with thousands of people seeking help on social media -- both Twitter and Facebook. Many of them are looking at nearest district locations, like Kolar, Ramanagar, Chikkaballapura, Mandya, Mysuru and Hassan, where there are lesser number of cases as compared to Bengaluru.

The Adichunchanagiri Institute of Medical Sciences (AIMS), located at Bellur Cross near Nagamangala of Mandya district, has 250 beds, including 50 ICU beds. As it is located just 100 km from the city and takes around one-and-a-half hours to reach by ambulance, a lot of Bengalureans are rushing there.

A health worker collects swab samples on the overbridge connecting the Majestic Bus Terminus and KSR Railway Station in Bengaluru on Monday | ASHISHKRISHNA HP

BK Umesh, registrar and finance officer of AIMS, said that over the last three days, many from Bengaluru have gone there to get themselves admitted. "But we have people from Mandya and Hassan, for whom the hospital is closer. We need to give them priority and we have decided to admit them first," he said.

Mahesh Gowda (name changed), who hails from Mandya and tested positive in Bengaluru where he works, got himself admitted at a Mandya hospital as he could not find a bed at Rajarajeshwari Nagar, where he resides. Not long ago, people from other districts would come to Bengaluru for better medical facilities. But with the uncontrolled Covid second wave, all that has changed. Sources at the Ramanagar deputy commissioner's office said that in the last one week, many from Bengaluru are going there to get themselves admitted in private and government hospitals. "We cannot restrict them as it is an emergency," they said.

People are even contacting district in-charge ministers to refer patients to hospitals at their districts. With this, local officials are under pressure as they have to give preference to locals first. An official pointed out that a patient from South Bengaluru takes over an hour to reach Marathahalli or Yelahanka. At the same time, she/he can reach another district. Hospitals in other districts cannot deny admission to patients from Bengaluru as there are no clear guidelines on this, the official added.

STARK REALITY

FEAR, DESPAIR MORE IN 2ND WAVE: EXPERT

BALA CHAUHAN @Bengaluru

THE second wave of Covid-19 is like a "tsunami" and has "compounded the sense of fear and despair among the people," according to Dr Pratima Murthy, professor and head of the Department of Psychiatry, National Institute of Mental Health & Neuro Sciences (NIMHANS), Bengaluru. "People with Covid-19 also need to be evaluated for neuropsychiatric symptoms and provided follow-up support. Those with substance use disorders need special attention, particularly for withdrawal management and relapse prevention," she pointed out.

Given the surge in infections in the second wave, entire families getting infected, constant bombardment with news about the lack of hospital beds, oxygen and medical care, the "sense of helplessness, anger and despair is ever more in the current wave than the previous one," said the leading NIMHANS psychiatrist.

"A constant exposure to haunting images of people denied oxygen, undying funeral pyres are so deeply disturbing that the reality that most people still recover from Covid uneventfully has faded from memory. The initial lassitude and fears of vaccination have given way to desperation to receive the vaccine and overcrowding in vaccination centres, making them loci of high risk. Despite scientific bulletins that most of the drugs being used are not 'magic bullets' and are useful only when used in specific conditions, there is a raging rush to keep and even to hoard them," she noted.

Dr Murthy said that an often less discussed aspect of Covid-19 is that the infection itself can "produce direct neuropsychiatric symptoms. Delirium, encephalopathy, disturbances of smell and taste, headache, behavioural changes, strokes, psychotic and mood disorders and catatonia have also been described, because of the intense immunological reaction the Novel Coronavirus can produce," she added.

Mental distress and Covid-19 can be looked at from two aspects. "One is from the psychological reactions that people have experienced for more than a year now, both during the pandemic and specifically during last year's lockdown, and secondly, the experiences of being affected by Covid-19 and its neuropsychiatric sequelae," she said.

Comparing the two cycles of the pandemic in India, Dr Murthy said that in the first, people had learned to cope during the first lockdown by keeping themselves busy, reconnecting with old friends online, spending more quality time with families. "They were encouraged not to panic in response to misinformation, to avoid watching too much television, to develop healthy hobbies and spiritual pursuits and to wait it out. The second wave is different and more difficult," she said.

All viral infections of the respiratory system can affect many other systems, including the central nervous system. "These are particularly likely in older persons and those who are more vulnerable. People who recover from Covid19 require longer-term mental health support as rates of depression, anxiety and post-traumatic stress disorder are higher among them," said the psychiatrist.

Labs fail to enter data, leave patients sans BU no.s

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE BU number -- Bengaluru Urban code for Covid-positive patients -- which help get a hospital bed under the government quota in Bengaluru, are not being generated, causing anxiety and concern as patients cannot gain admission. All expenses of such a patient are picked up by the government. There have been hundreds of complaints about BU numbers not being generated.

A senior bureaucrat, V Ponnuraj, head of the State Covid War Room, said, "BU numbers are not getting generated because test results for these patients are not updated on the ICMR portal by labs, from where the State War Room fetches data to generate BU numbers for each person."

He said the reason for this could be because swab collectors of private labs do not follow protocol and don't submit details in the government software. BU numbers cannot be generated for such cases, he added.

To remedy this, there should be adequate awareness among citizens to insist on the SRF ID (Specimen Referral Form), which gets generated if swab collectors and private labs follow protocol. Once the SRF ID is generated, the case can always be traced. He said in many cases, the SRF ID is generated but labs do not enter the test result because of heavy workload.

The officer said that as a solution, data entry operators could be hired to speed up data entry. This step is being taken by the BBMP Commissioner for government labs. For private labs, automation is being attempted by NIC, Karnataka, and if this succeeds, the data entry step will be reduced, and result updation on the ICMR portal can be speeded up. This can be used for government labs too.

Ponnuraj said action can be taken against labs for delaying the data entry and not updating results on the ICMR portal, and had been initiated by the BBMP against five labs. The labs did not comply with protocol or heed advisories issued so far.

'State spends Rs 400 cr for 1 crore doses'

"THE Karnataka Government is spending Rs 400 crore to procure one crore doses of vaccine in the first phase and it will be used to inoculate citizens aged between 18-44 free of cost," added Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar.

Serum Institute of India has priced each dose of its vaccine at Rs 400 while Bharat Biotech's Covaxin has been priced at Rs 600 per dose for state governments. Both vaccines are procured by the Union Government at Rs 150 per dose and that is being used to vaccinate those above the age of 45 across the country. The Opposition in Karnataka had demanded free vaccination for all. Former Prime Minister H D Deve Gowda too, in his letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, had said free vaccination for all will be a humanitarian service if the Centre agrees to it.

'CORONA CURFEW' DRIVES PEOPLE INTO PANIC MODE

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE 'Corona Curfew' from Tuesday 9 pm till 6 am of May 12, announced on Monday by Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa, caused panic across the state with people rushing to buy provisions and stock up their homes. And thousands whose homes were elsewhere started making preparations for trains or buses to take them homewards while making good the time before the curfew is to be enforced.

Misunderstanding this to be a lockdown like the one announced by Yediyurappa on March 23 last year, people were seen rushing to shops to buy as much of the essentials to keep them going for some days at least. Wine stores made brisk business and many displayed empty racks as demand picked up in the hours after the CM's announcement.

Ironically, in several places such a rush itself was in violation of safety norms for managing the pandemic, for which the curfew was announced.

Those who knew that this curfew will not be like the 2020 lockdown, however, reason that only four hours allowed for shops to remain open between 6 am and 10 am will itself cause much rush for people to buy in that restricted time. Bengaluru witnessed rushes, mainly in residential areas, to beat this four-hour conundrum.

People head out for their hometowns from KSR Railway Station on Monday | VINOD KUMAR

In Mysuru, the "lockdown fear" forced people to make a beeline to departmental stores to buy daily needs. The streets were loaded with vehicles and the number of passengers leaving for various destinations rose.

Apart from Bengaluru and Mysuru, panic buying and movements to leave for home was reported from parts of Belagavi, Shivamogga, Bagalkot, Vijayapura, Kalaburagi, Udupi, Dakshina Kannada, Kolar and Chikkaballapur.

Experts welcome curfew, say it's necessary

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE 'Covid curfew', as the government is terming the present 14-day lockdown, has been welcomed by doctors and experts. They too do not want to call it a lockdown, but instead termed it 'government-enforced social distancing'.

A member of the Technical Advisory Committee said, "It is a government-enforced social distancing, which people and even politicians failed to adhere to. Finally, the advice of the committee has been implemented. We are glad that the government did not wait for another peak before putting its foot down. Now, we pray that the government does not relax norms for some sections, as it will fail its purpose."

Dr Vishal Rao U S, Dean, Centre of Academics and Research, HCG Cancer Centre, and member of expert committee – Covid task force, Government of India, said, "A lockdown is a method to slow down the spread of the virus, break the chain and prepare. The spread of the virus is already ahead of preparedness and we require more oxygen and beds. With this lockdown, the pressure on hospitals will ease as it will ensure the highest form of social distancing."

Dr K Bhujang Shetty, CMD, Narayana Nethralaya, said the 14-day restriction is ideal. It is better than the halfhearted weekend and night curfew. "We are in a desperate situation. We all should cooperate with the government and each other to control the spread. Beds, doctors and nurses cannot be created overnight," he added.

Dr Govindaiah Yatish, elect-president, Phana, said that it is good to have a two-week lockdown and then review the situation for two more weeks.

But some were critical of the move. Dr Srinivas Kakkilaya, a community health expert, said that it is counterproductive and that he had written to the cCM against it. "We need to have innovative solutions for new problems. Covid also spreads in households. If the lockdown is to prevent people from meeting each other, facilities should be created to stay away from each other. During a lockdown, people will crowd in houses and neighbourhoods. There will also be crowding at markets as they are open only between 6 am and 10 am. If you want to ensure social distancing, increase time of purchase from 6 am to midnight, run more buses, double the number of shops and enforce protocols like wearing masks," he said.

Rush at vax centres, crowds ignore norms

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THERE is a rush of people aged 45 and above at vaccination centres, eager to arm themselves as the coronavirus spreads its tentacles. This is only making the task of doctors and observers at government and private vaccination centres more difficult.

The rush increased on Monday afternoon, after news spread of the 14-day lockdown and strict restrictions on movement, to contain the virus. In this eagerness to get vaccinated, Covid-appropriate behaviour like social distance is being given the go-by.

More importantly, the 30-minute waiting period post-vaccination, which must be ensured to observe any side-effects, was disregarded. At many PHCs and private vaccination centres, there were no observers or doctors to check on patients, while at some others, there was no space for beneficiaries to wait, as the queues were long.

"We are helpless, we have limited staff and there are too many people. They need not wait in the observation room as usually, nobody reports any immediate side-effects. We tell patients to take paracetamol in case they have any side-effects," a doctor.

BBMP Chief Commissioner Gaurav Gupta said, "It is good that people are coming forward, and realising the importance of vaccination. But there is no need to rush, as vaccination and other public health issues will not be put on hold during the curfew period."

Covid curbs: No relief packages announced

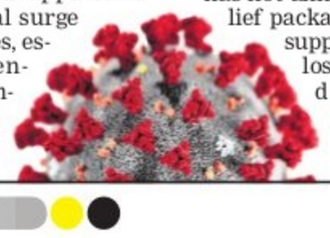
DETAILED guidelines on what is allowed and what is not was issued on Monday evening by Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar. The restrictions have come about after detailed discussions with the Technical Advisory Committee and industry experts, Yediyurappa said. The exponential surge in Covid-19 cases, especially in Bengaluru, has compelled the government to order a lockdown-like situation.



"It doesn't matter what word we use. What matters are the restrictions that are required to contain the spread," insisted Home Minister Basavaraj Bommai, disagreeing with the restrictions being deemed a 'lockdown'. The government has not announced any relief package or economic support for possible loss of livelihoods due to the restrictions.

The fresh guidelines issued by the government orders continuation of all existing restrictions till May 12 in addition to the prohibition of inter- and intra-state passenger travel. However, emergency cases will be exempted. All hotels and eateries will be allowed to open kitchens, and standalone liquor shops will also allowed to open, for takeaway services only. While schools and colleges will remain shut, exams already scheduled will continue and students can use admit cards as travel passes.

Foreigners stuck in Gokarna seek vaccine

SUBHASH CHANDRA NS @Karwar

FOREIGNERS, stuck at Gokarna because of the present Covid situation, have appealed to the State Government to vaccinate them, but their plea has not been heeded to.

Around 130 foreigners are stranded here, the tourist and religious destination. After the vaccination drive began in the country, they have been visiting the local government hospitals frequently demanding they be vaccinated too. But the government has not responded to their request, said a senior health official at Kumta.

Foreign nationals, stuck in Gokarna, seek information on vaccination

"They came here as visitors and decided to stay at Gokarna after the pandemic broke out. They have tried to get themselves vaccinated, and gone to district hospitals and approached every single officer for vaccination, but in vain," said Bharath Kumar, a resident.

Many of them are ready to pay for the vaccination, and approached private hospitals. But they were told that there were no directions from the government.

Most of these foreigners are at homestays in the holy town and some are trying their hand at farming and vegetable cultivation to while away their time.

Officials in Karwar said that there has been an order from the government to vaccinate people working at several embassies and international agencies, but there has been no specific order on vaccinating foreign nationals stuck in the country.

Pay full benefits to retired woman staffer: HC to state

Petitioner wasn't given a penny after retirement

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court directed the State Government to regularise the services of a retired woman employee of Sindhanur Taluk Development Board and pay consequential, as well as terminal benefits/ pension, which were denied to her on the ground that she was appointed on temporary basis.

Allowing the petition filed by GP Sarojamma, resident of GN Chavan Eligere Oni, Lingasugur taluk of Raichur district, Justice Nagaprasanna said that the petitioner is entitled to consequential benefits only from March 22, 1992, the day on which she completed 10 years of service except arrears of salary.

The petitioner is entitled to payment of terminal benefit with effect from January 31, 2007, the date of her retirement, which should be calculated on the basis of the applicable pay-scale to similarly-placed employees, the judge said in the order passed recently.

Sarojamma had moved the court in 2011, seeking directions for grant of terminal benefits payable on her retirement on January 31, 2007, on attaining the age of superannuation, after completing 25 years of service in the government. Though 13 years have lapsed after she submitted the records for benefits to the government, no order has been passed either granting regularisation or denying it, which undoubtedly left her condemned by penury to impecuniosities, as she was not given even a penny after her retirement.

Justice Nagaprasanna said that the action of the State Government in not paying the petitioner even a penny on her retirement would not behove its status of being a model employer. Therefore, the state should regularise the service of the petitioner, pay her terminal benefits after fixing the pay scale for the services rendered by her for 25 years, and grant her fruits of regularisation failing which the action of the state in extracting employment from the petitioner, not considering her case for regularisation and retiring her without a penny would amount to exploitation of human labour at the hands of the state, which can never be countenanced, but at the same time, the state cannot now be mulcted with payment of back wages, the judge added.

Sarojamma was appointed on May 18, 1982, on temporary basis with a pay scale of Rs 280-500 with all other allowances, by Taluk Development Board.

Cops book private hospital under Disaster Mgmt Act

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

PUTTENAHALLI police have filed a case against the management of Apollo Hospital, Bannerghatta Road, under the Disaster Management Act for allegedly cheating the BBMP, by manipulating the data of Covid patients, and also extorting Rs 2.4 lakh from the family of a deceased Covid patient.

Based on a complaint by medical officer Dr Nagendra Kumar S, an FIR has been registered against hospital CEO Davidson; Dr Kalpana, operational head; Shanta and Sahana, medical superintendents; and Chandana and Manjula, members of Apollo Hospital Arogya Mitra team, charging them under the Disaster Management Act for cheating, and Section 188 (disobedience of order promolgated by public servant) of IPC. The police said that Dr Nagendra Kumar from Bommanhalli zone conducted surprise inspection on Sunday and came to know that the hospital management was denying admission to Covid patients by continuing to update the SAST portal with fake admission details, even after admitted patients had been discharged a few days earlier.

The medical officer also learnt that the hospital was giving false information and misguiding the government by denying treatment to Covid patients during medical emergencies. Dr Nagendra Kumar was shocked to learn about three patients, identified as Kashinath (71), Rajarao (79) and Surya Narayan Shetty (73), who were admitted to the hospital under BBMP reference. While Shetty was admitted on April 14 and discharged on April 20, the hospital continued to update the portal as 'admitted', instead of 'discharged'. Similarly, Rajarao was admitted to the hospital on April 16, but had succumbed on April 20. The hospital allegedly forced his kin to pay Rs 2.4 lakh, while continuing to update the portal as 'admitted'.

The third case, Kashinath, was admitted on April 17 and discharged on April 22. But the hospital again continued to maintain the app as on April 25 as 'admitted'. Using the same modus operandi, the hospital is alleged to have not only cheated patients, their families and the government, but also denied treatment to deserving Covid patients.

When TNIE contacted the hospital, no spokesperson was available for comment.

ASI succumbs to coronavirus

A 58-year-old Assistant Sub-Inspector succumbed to Covid on Sunday. The deceased, Muniyappa, was attached to Byatarayanapura police station. Senior officers said Muniyappa was under treatment in a hospital after he tested positive. He passed away on Sunday. "Recently, he underwent a heart surgery and doctors had advised him against taking the vaccine as he was recovering," an official said.

VTU PUTS OFF ENGG EXAMS

New schedule to be announced later; students had sought clarity from govt on holding of exams

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA
@Bengaluru

DEPUTY Chief Minister Ashwath Narayan late on Monday evening announced that engineering and polytechnic examinations stand postponed.

The rescheduled examination dates will be announced after the corona curfew is lifted, he said.

This comes after widespread criticism against the government by students. First-year students of Visvesvaraya Technological University (VTU), whose semester examinations are under way, were in a quandary on Monday, after the state government decided to impose stricter curfew from Tuesday.

With only three papers left, first semester students were seeking clarifications from the government. "There is no public transport starting tomorrow night, how are we expected to write the examination? Some of my batchmates come from the Tamil Nadu border, and are wondering how to make it to the examination. It's best that they are postponed because writing them in the next semester will be a burden. With the second PU examination on hold, CET wont be completed, and engineering colleges can't commence the academic year for first-year students," said a student from a private engineering college on Kanakpura Road. The education department postponed practical examinations for Science students on April 28 till after the theory examinations are completed. Students also took to social media to show the violation of safety protocols in colleges when holding examinations during the second wave. "Sanitiser was not provided, and temperature was not checked. The only norm followed was the limit of students per classroom -- 30 students in a hall," added a student. Students on social media also highlighted how SOPs were not followed at examination centres.

Despite asking only those with Covid-negative certificates to enter the hostel, a student said that co-residents continued living with symptoms, and a test was held on campus just once.

All India Democratic Students Organisation had condemned the VTU administration for keeping with the examination schedule. Former minister Pramod Madhwaraj tweeted that he had requested the CM's special officer to convey their concern to the chief minister.

RCU finally postpones semester exam

Belagavi: Rani Channamma University (RCU) has finally postponed all examinations scheduled from April 27, with an increasing threat of Covid-19 spread. The New Sunday Express (TNSE) had published a detailed report on April 26 that RCU is facing harsh criticism for conducting semester exams from April 27. A recorded phone audio clip, purportedly containing a conversation between a student and RCU staffer regarding the exam, went viral. In the clip, the student asks how the university can conduct an examination when the pandemic is at its peak. In its notification, RCU said that all UG, PG, MBA examinations that were to be held from April 27 were postponed. The revised timetable will be sent to all colleges, and be published on the website, valuation registrar SM Hurakadli said.

Only critical patients being admitted in Kerala hosps

UNNIKRISHNAN S @T'Puram

IN a marked departure in Covid care in the state, now hospital beds will be mostly reserved for people with severe Covid infection as the health department revised the discharge guidelines to free up beds. The state has so far taken a relaxed approach as asymptomatic people were allowed to get admission in hospitals and other covid treatment centres.

However, the new criteria have become a cause of concern for many as they worry over availability of medical attention once the health condition deteriorates. "It is a good approach to free up resources. But it also leads to a lot of confusion among the public as the disease progresses a week after the exposure to infection. There will always be worry about the medical attention at the critical juncture," said Dr NM Arun, internal medicine specialist. The new norms say those with mild or even moderate disease will be discharged if they remain asymptomatic for three days and they do not necessarily become negative in a rapid antigen test for getting the discharge.

The asymptomatic will have to observe 17 days in home isolation. During the isolation the mildly infected should monitor their health condition based on the asymptomatic home guidelines already in use. The moderately ill can be discharged and shifted to room isolation at home or Covid first-line or second-line treatment centres after they become stable for three days. "We have been a bit over cautious in admission and discharge. However as the number of patients increases our focus will be to bring all the critically ill under institutional care," said a doctor who is part of the board that made the recommendations. He allayed the concerns saying that the treatment guideline has included measures such as a 6-minute walk test to identify the problems of lungs and make early intervention of treatment. The state government took the step as some of the districts have faced shortage of beds due to increase in patient load.

"EVERY time my daughters call, I feel like going back, but my duty is more important now," Shankar Majhi said, adding that he gets only his basic pay and not even special allowance for the extra duty and risk that he is taking.

Mohammed Hakeekath, who joined work just six months ago, says he never expected it to be so hectic. "We never thought it would become like this, but when we see patients around the hospitals where we deliver oxygen, we cannot complain and we just forget the need for rest," he said.

NOTHING AGAINST THE IPL, BUT ITS TIMING IS NOT RIGHT

We received overwhelming support. There was criticism too. There are two sides to every story and we accept that. Our decision to suspend IPL coverage is all about sensitivity to the current Covid crisis in the nation. The wails of ambulances are drowning the sound of leather meeting the sweet spot of the willow. The glaring floodlights of stadiums stand quietly while piercing the stillness of the air. In stark contrast, streets outside stadia are empty and there is darkness all around because of lockdown, especially in Mumbai, one of the venues.

Thousands are testing positive every day. Our healthcare system is overwhelmed. The situation is grim. In Chennai, the Covid situation is getting worse. The IPL moved to Ahmedabad on Monday and will take place in Delhi from Wednesday, two of the worst-hit cities. Just imagine playing at the Arun Jaitley Stadium in Delhi with one of the busiest medical centres right opposite—Lok Nayak Jai Prakash Narayan Hospital where patients are battling for life. There is shortage of oxygen. The situation is no less grim in Ahmedabad where people have been queueing up outside cremation grounds.

As for the players, it's their personal decision to play or leave. R Ashwin tweeted saying he would prefer to be with his family as they fight against Covid and has left his franchise Delhi Capitals. Three Australians have left. Aussie bowler Pat Cummins is perhaps the only IPL star to announce a donation of $50,000 to the PM-Cares fund. But there are certain gestures of solidarity and empathy the IPL franchisees could have shown. Messages from stars in support of our frontline workers or a line or two about staying indoors and masking up. It could have been a platform to show their concern and stand firmly with the citizens, especially with those who have lost their near and dear ones and those who are battling for life.

Sport transcends vicissitudes of life. It mirrors life's beauty where even defeats are celebrated. It acts as a catharsis. It's a celebration. But when this very celebration turns into a blur, it is off-putting. Like we said, we have nothing against the game. It's just that the timing is not right.

THE BATTLE AGAINST CLIMATE CHANGE

Last week was a big one for climate change. The new Biden administration has committed to halving emissions of the United States—the world's second-largest producer of greenhouse gases (GHG)—by the end of this decade. The drastic announcement, coming after four whole years of climate denial under former president Donald Trump, has given the world fresh hope. More importantly, it has now put the onus on China and India to respond in kind.

China consumed half of the world's coal in 2019, says the International Energy Agency (IEA). It is responsible for a quarter of the world's GHG emissions. Naturally, it's important for China to be on board for any climate treaty to yield results. Though the Asian power's president made tall claims at the White House climate summit last week about what his country intends to do, the fact remains that Beijing is yet to produce a national plan to cap its emissions within prescribed limits for this decade, a requirement under the Paris climate treaty. With a 11% in global share, India comes a distant second in coal consumption. But in sheer numbers, it's enough to make or break the Paris accord. The US has been appreciative of initiatives taken by India to transition to greener forms of energy. The IEA, however, differs in its opinion. The agency estimates that India's emissions will rise by a massive 50% by 2040, which is enough to cancel out the predicted fall in emissions across all of Europe. India's environment ministry has also given its approval for coal-fired power plants that together will produce a massive 100 GW. This is because coal continues to be far cheaper than green energy.

While the US has brought the attention back on achieving Paris targets, it's imperative that focus remains on climate finances. It is important for historical emitters to cut down their emissions as well as help developing nations achieve the same. The US promise to double the climate finances to compensate for the sharp drop during the Trump era is a good start. Developing nations should also be prepared with a roadmap to put these finances to good use.

The second wave cannot just be addressed by governments and existing governance machinery in place. It is time for businesses to also lend a hand

PRIVATE SECTOR AND PANDEMIC MANAGEMENT

AMIT BANDRE

HARISH BIJOOR

Brand Guru & Founder, Harish Bijoor Consults

The pandemic is back, with a vengeance this time round. The second wave seems to be worse than the first. And this wave has bitten us just when a certain degree of lethargy on maintaining Covid controls had come into our lives. Covid-ennui had stepped in as a mindset, after a long year of strict controls. The masks were being worn with a lesser degree of paranoia, social distancing became a myth and hands were being washed with that much less periodicity and passion.

Nonetheless, the pandemic is in our home now, if not at our doorstep. Bengaluru, the capital city of new cases, is topping 700 positives an hour, and medical infrastructure to deal with the pandemic is creaking on rickety legs. Pune and Delhi continue to struggle, as do others. The big city disease is no longer one restricted to just these places. As people leave the city and make their way into the hinterland of India, Covid-19 is slated to become a village-to-village reality. And that is a big worry.

The finger-pointing has begun, and politics is being played with merriment. Overall, there is a feeling of inadequacy all around. There is a shortage of oxygen, Remdesivir and beds in hospitals for the critically ill; there is even a shortage of appreciation of the humongous work being done.

The thing to remember is that this is an "Act of God" event (if not an "Act of Devil" calamity). Something so sudden and so massive that there is just no infrastructure in place to cope with the immensity of it all. China, with its large capacity, faced it right at the beginning; literally every country has faced this problem to date, never mind whether it was a supra-developed, developed, developing or submerged nation in economic terms.

The problem statement is clear. An entire nation has the potential of falling prey to the virus in some form or the other. This is a Pareto issue again. While 80% will go through it seamlessly, the balance 20% will suffer through it, and a subset of that percentage will ring the mortality bell. The numbers that represent this 20% is the huge issue for a big country like India. Managing the pressing needs of this 20%, oftentimes concentrated in our densely populated urban agglomerations, is the key problem at hand. How does one solve this?

The solution is really one that cannot be addressed by governments and their existing governance machinery in place alone. The problem is just too big. It's time for the private sector, and every able-bodied citizen in fact, to step in.

The private sector, in sheer number terms, is represented in India by 1.26 million large and medium-sized corporate enterprises. Add to it 61 million MSMEs. Add to it 5,100 higher education institutions of every kind. Add 8,500 clubs and entertainment hubs with facilities, 12,000 hotels of the five-star to three-star kind, 3,810 shopping malls with space. Keep adding.

Each of these private sector establishments, without being requisitioned by the government, must put a step forward in the space of pandemic management. We already have excellent examples from the biggies. Industrial oxygen has been diverted for medical use. RIL has provided 700 MT of oxygen per day, JSW Steel has committed 400 MT and SAIL, Vedanta, Tata and IOC are others who have contributed valuably. Time to stretch these numbers further.

In times of war, the purpose of all private enterprise is to help fight it. This pandemic is a war like never before. ... We already have excellent examples from the biggies. RIL has provided 700 MT of oxygen per day, JSW Steel has committed 400 MT and SAIL, Vedanta, Tata and IOC have also contributed valuably. Time to stretch these numbers further

India Inc sits atop a pyramid of consumers. In normal times, these consumers contribute to the prosperity of the corporate at the top. There is a clear commercial equation at play. If people are happy, India Inc is happy. If people are stressed and sad, India Inc is stressed and sad. We live in the latter times.

The private sector has a valuable role to play in managing the pandemic. The current task of pandemic management is just too large to be left to governments alone. The taxes we pay so diligently should not be the only support to this massive exercise.

The medical calamity is so large that it's time for every private sector organisation to revisit its purpose. Every organisation is purpose-driven. Most mission, vision and purpose statements are enshrined in gold within organisations. The pandemic nudge is here. Time now to repurpose this purpose. Time to repurpose raw materials, components and machinery, labour, equipment and the production process, and even re-engineer the organisation for public purpose.

In times of war, the purpose of all private enterprise is to help fight it. This pandemic is a war like never before. Time to repurpose without being asked. By volition.

An example is a small piece of work I am involved in. I am working with two business schools to set up a 400-bed intermediary Covid care facility on their campuses. This is not for the student community alone, but for those that live around the campus. This is management in action. Students learn valuable lessons in planning, organising, staffing, directing, coordinating, reporting and budgeting. And at the end of it all, there is a spanking new 400-bed facility for Covid care management. The enthusiasm of the eight student cohorts behind this exercise is infectious.

There is an important need to repurpose as we battle the second wave and prepare for the third. There is an immediate need for a "second place" to be set up. The first place is the home and the third place is the hospital. The second place is that in-between area that can take care of the ones who are not seriously ill. It is an important interventionist middle-layer that will help cure a lot more people, who will hopefully never have to go to the third place, ever.

Time for all businesses to pivot. Repurpose and pivot.

AREY O SAMBA! WHO INVENTED SAMBAR?

SRINIVAS SISTLA

Associate Professor, Department of Fine Arts, Andhra University, Visakhapatnam

Being passionate about cooking since long, I have been interested in knowing the antiquity of all ethnic food items, which still remain a part of our daily meal. Pappu Pulusu, or simply Pulusu, is a delicacy of the Andhra cuisine; but the name is less known outside the region. On the contrary, Sambar, which has always been considered as part of Tamil cuisine, is well known worldwide. Though the names differ, both items are prepared nearly with the same ingredients, like pigeon peas, a variety of vegetables, and of course, the main ingredient, tamarind paste, and also a bit of jaggery. While reading classical Telugu literature, I paid little attention to either Pulusu or Sambar, perhaps because both are too common within South Indian food culture to take any special note. Anyway, let me now bring forth a simple question: Who invented Sambar?

According to an account that is widely in circulation both in print and more so in social media, Sambar was invented in the royal kitchen of Shahaji I (r. 1684–1712), the son of Ekoji (r. 1676–1684), the founder of the Maratha rule at Thanjavur. Apparently, when Samba or Sambhaji (b. 14 May 1657), the eldest son and successor (r. 16 January 1681–11 March 1689) of Chhatrapati Shivaji of the Maratha Empire, had come to Thanjavur, he was served with a new dish, either invented by an unknown royal chef, or Shahaji himself, and from then on, the item came to be called Sambar, after the guest. This story has a few different versions in which a few ingredients differ, but the end product remains the same, Sambar. Though it appears to be a 'well-cooked' item, is it true? Isn't this a recently fabricated urban legend?

Tamarind (tamtrini in Sanskrit) must have been used, at least in South Indian cuisine, since time immemorial; for, this sour item has been mentioned in many ancient South Indian poems, verses and even simple, but meaningful, proverbs. For instance, in Telugu, chinta means 'tamarind' as well as 'thought' and 'worry'. A near-forgotten proverb, suffused with pun, in the language says, "There is no chinta; if there is no chinta, there is no Pulusu." Such proverbs, however, cannot be dated, and therefore its antiquity remains unknown. Nevertheless, Srinatha (c.1365-1441), who wrote several long poems and also many Chatu-Padyamulu (impromptu verses) in Telugu, had mentioned, in one verse, a tamarind-based item by name Chaaru, which comprises other ingredients such as pieces of drumstick, onions, black pepper (Miriyanu), etc. The same item is known in Tamil and other languages as Rasam. The poet says that in the Dravida region, "Served at the very first itself is the Miriyala Chaaru, which sweeps extreme fumes into the ears." Often, not only tastes differ from person to person, but the sequence in which different items consumed in a meal also varies from region to region. In another verse, the poet mentions an item that is prepared with the sprouting tamtrini leaves and Bachali (Indian spinach) in the Palnadu region of Andhra, and says, "Oh Krishna, you boast of having poison from the bosom of Putana, and gulped easily the raging fires; come now, and swallow this item with the cooked Sorghum, to prove your claims".

Bheema as the royal chef in the kitchen of King Virata, a 19th century block-print

In a Keertana, Tallapaka Annamacharya (22 May 1408–4 April 1503) had compared the fruitful results of one's own 'punyam paapam' (virtue and vice) with "pulusu-teepu-nu-kalapi-bhujichi-natlu" which could be translated as 'like mixing Pulusu and sweet to consume'; and thus, Annamayya has mentioned one of the delicacies under consideration here.

Further, Krishna Deva Raya (r. 1509–1529) of the Vijayanagara Empire had written a complex poem of seven cantos in Telugu, Amuktamalyada (c.1517), which I had translated into English, and published in 2010. A verse from the poem (II. 98), in my translation, goes as follows: "Out of affection, his devoted wife has packed in a sack/ Porivillimgaayas, old rice cleared of chaff suitable for pouring in hot water/ Sambar ingredients packed in separate packs, jaggery, tamarind paste/ Cumin seeds mixed in jaggery, cooking utensils, dry grass tied to the yoke/ Cow ghee in small kettles, dry cow dung cakes for burning, curd-vadiyamulu/ Orugulu soaked in water, pulses and puja-box for the worship of Vishnu!"

Thus, the verse mentions "sambarampuchintapandu" along with many other ingredients, which in my understanding means, 'the ripe tamarind mixed with all ingredients to prepare sambar (not saambar)'. A well-known Telugu-to-Telugu dictionary, Sabdaratnakaramu, of Bahujanapalli Sitaramacharyulu (1827–1891), and a comprehensive Telugu commentary on the poem published (1927) by Vedam Venkataraya Sastri (1853–1929) also interprets the stanza in the same way. Therefore, Sambar must have been prepared as a regular item, much before its earliest known reference in Amuktamalyada of Krishna Deva Raya. In the verse, the wife of Vishnuchitta/Periyazhvar packs the listed items at Srivilliputtur, in Tamil Nadu, and therefore, the emperor-poet seems to suggest that Sambar had been an integral part of Tamil cuisine.

Perumpanatrupadai, an ancient Tamil classic of the 2nd century CE, mentions a food item that was prepared with the combination of rice, lentils, tamarind pulp and broad bean seeds. Though this reference requires further study to get a better understanding of its actual name, to my mind, the ingredients remind me of the rice-based Sambar Saadam/Annam.

US behaviour obnoxious

This is with reference to India gets to see the ugly face of US selfishness (Apr 26). PM Narendra Modi ordered the export of 29 million doses of Hydroxychloroquine to the US in April last year on humanitarian grounds. Thus, America's blunt refusal to allow the export of their stockpiled vaccines is unreasonable.

Give suggestions as well

This is with reference to Covid crisis in our nation: A saga of failures (Apr 26). The author narrating a list of the Centre's failures to manage the pandemic is alright, as he is entitled to reprimand the ruling establishment. But he should also give valuable suggestions instead of just pointing out its faults.

Poor medical infra

The author did not mince his words about the way the second wave was handled. The crippling shortage of medical infrastructure and vote bank politics are costing the nation heavily.

Double whammy

The report that Covid vaccines in Kerala could cost about `1,000-`1,500 per dose is terrible. Private hospitals will gain windfall profits, but it will be a double whammy to the people already in distress due to the pandemic and the soaring prices of essentials.

The decision of this newspaper to suspend IPL coverage appears to be a tad hasty. It is an accepted strategy to allow economic activity whenever possible and the IPL certainly is one. Further, it provides some positivity. Readers are looking for some lighter news in the midst of the pandemic.

Decision bold and timely

I appreciate the bold and timely decision of the newspaper. At a time when the nation is facing a pandemic of unimaginable magnitude, continuing the game seems like an insult.

How was it allowed?

When all of Tamil Nadu faced a complete lockdown on Sunday such that the movement of people was not allowed unless for emergencies, the IPL match scheduled in Chennai went on as usual and ended beyond 11 pm. How was this allowed? This type of non-emergency relaxation is not healthy.

COVID: MISSING FACTS, MISDIRECTED DISCOURSE

S GURUMURTHY
Editor, Thuglak and commentator on economic and political affairs

ONE-FIFTH of Indian districts have not reported any Covid-19 cases for the last seven days. We seem to have flattened the Covid curve," declared Union health minister Dr Harsh Vardhan two months back, on February 15. By then the daily infections that had peaked to 90,000 cases last year, were down to less than 9,000. But things changed dramatically into an unprecedented disaster in April (see table). The grim situation called for a huge national resolve to deal with the crisis. But the unfortunate deaths caused by the shortage of oxygen in Delhi made the ecosystem so emotionally surcharged that all facts and reasoning became irrelevant. The missing facts misdirected the public discourse, distorted the narrative on Covid and damaged the national will to face the challenge. Look at what crucial facts were missed.

Profiteers' complaint

The oxygen shortage-induced deaths first occurred in Delhi's corporate hospitals. These hospitals made huge profits, even more last year, thanks to the pandemic. That provoked the National Herald site to write an article titled Profit in times of COVID-19: Is it time to take over private hospitals? (20.6.2020). The report said "₹25,090, ₹53,090, ₹75,590, ₹5,00,000, ₹6,00,000, ₹12,00,000 — these are not random numbers. These are the per day costs and cumulative two-week costs for a bed in private hospitals in Delhi if one gets Coronavirus." Adding the cost of the personal protection equipment (PPE), tests and medicines, the bill equalled Indians' annual income, it said. Home treatment fee was no less; it varied from ₹5,700 to ₹21,900 a day plus cost of tests. The Herald report cited a writ against this loot in the Supreme Court.

Alarmed by the writ, the Association of Healthcare Providers (AHPs) and FICCI members agreed to self-regulate. What were the self-regulated fees? AHP's daily fee for general wards was ₹15,000 plus ₹5,000 for oxygen; for ICU ₹25,000 plus ₹10,000 for ventilators. The FICCI's rates were even higher -- ₹17,000 to ₹45,000 per day. And more. Hospitals bought PPEs at ₹375-500 apiece and sold them to patients at 10-12 times more. Chennai and Mumbai were no exceptions, said the Herald.

It is these hospitals that now filed writs under the constitutional right to life, for oxygen supply by governments — for which they charge the patients ₹5,000 per day! Anyone heard of these horrendous facts of the loot in the uproarious debate on oxygen shortage causing deaths? This is important because the profiteering hospitals could have set up their own oxygen plants at minuscule cost. Read on.

O_2 privatised, unregulated

The production, trade, stocking and use of oxygen is privatised. The trade in medical oxygen is not controlled or regulated in India — though its prices are controlled by the National Pharma Pricing Authority (NPPA) — an autonomous body under the chemicals and fertilisers ministry. Producers enter into private contracts with industries, hospitals and also governments to supply oxygen. Hospitals plan how much oxygen is needed for an emergency, estimate the lead time for delivery and order accordingly. Their supply chains were long both in distance and time, particularly for Delhi hospitals, which are thousands of kilometers away from their production sources spread across several states. Supplies have to be trucked in from industrial zones in eastern India. This needed meticulous advance planning to ensure timely deliveries even during normalcy. But hospitals did not plan stocks for contingent needs and saved on costs. Did anyone hear any of these facts in the noise of the last 10 days?

No shortage

Second, there is no shortage of oxygen. We produce 1,00,000 tonnes a day, with one company in Gujarat alone producing a fifth of it. Of the total produced, only a minuscule part, some 1%, is medical oxygen. Even in the Covid crisis, it may not top 5-6%. The production of oxygen, mostly captively used, is concentrated in far-off areas. Oxygen in liquid form is traded and transported through heavy, safe tankers, each of which costs ₹45 lakh. Worse still, oxygen worth ₹300 is stored in a cylinder that costs ₹10,000! The distant production and multiple trade chains in oxygen, transport in tankers and stocking in cylinders created huge logistic issues even in normal times. In times of pandemic, this supply chain wouldn't withstand stress, particularly when Delhi, where the deaths occurred, is several hundred kms away from where the oxygen has to be transported.

Profiteers failed, but shifted the blame

After the Covid first wave last year, each (Delhi) hospital should have set up their on-the-spot oxygen producing unit. A report by The Print says that a 240-bed hospital with 40 ICU beds uses oxygen worth about ₹5 lakh per month in normal times. It costs some ₹50 lakh to set up a Pressure Swing Adsorption (PSA) oxygen plant, which they could recover within 18 months. Every Delhi hospital could afford it. But none was ready to allocate the precious space to house an oxygen plant. They opted to buy oxygen from a thousand kilometres away instead and not make it in their backyard. The supply chain risks of oxygen were brought out last year by Cherish Paul, John Paul and Akhil Babu of the Department of Anaesthesia and Critical Care, Jubilee Mission Medical College and Research Institute, Thrissur, Kerala. In an article in the Indian Journal of Respiratory Care titled "Hospital oxygen supply: A survey of disaster preparedness of Indian hospitals," the three experts concluded that most of the hospitals rely on a single pipeline from a single location, inviting mishaps during disasters. They recommended multiple sources of oxygen depending on the size and the hospital's proximity to a liquid oxygen plant.

Apply this caution to the Delhi hospitals. They could themselves produce oxygen but did not. They never planned for an uninterrupted supply of oxygen during a disaster. When their supply lines for oxygen on which they profiteer failed, they cited the constitutional right to life and asked the court to direct governments to give oxygen! The off-hand and emotional response of the court actually helped to shift the blame on to governments. That changed the very discourse and narrative on Covid. Did the public have any hint of these critical facts in the last few days?

It is private hospitals profiteering out of the pandemic as brought out by a National Herald report that filed writs in the Delhi High Court under the constitutional right to life for oxygen supply

Even state govt hospitals created hurdles in setting up PSA oxygen units sanctioned by the Centre, the real reason being vested interest to procure it rather than generating their entire requirement onsite

Hospitals thwarted 129 on-spot oxygen plants

The current stentorian discourse sans facts, which shifts the blame on to the government for the supply chain failures of hospitals, misses a more critical fact. Anticipating a contingency like this, the Modi government had ordered 162 PSA plants at a cost of over ₹200 crore in October last for government hospitals all over India. This could have produced 80,500 litres of medical oxygen per minute. This translates approximately to one ton of liquid oxygen per day per plant. But out of plants ordered for 162 hospitals, only 33 got installed. Why? Even state government hospitals thwarted the Centre's plan for on-the-spot oxygen production facilities. The Print says, orders were placed in December but when vendors reached the hospitals for installation, many "faced resistance" from them, pretending "no space" — the real reason being vested interest to procure oxygen rather than generating the entire requirement onsite. This showed how advance planning for on-the-spot oxygen supply by the Centre was thwarted by even the state-run hospitals. In the contemporary shouting and counter shouting in the media and social media, has anyone heard about this farsighted move of the government, beyond the feeble voice of The Print?

New Covid Tsunami isn't a return of the old

An even more critical fact that is absent in the discourse on oxygen deficit, is that the present Covid Tsunami is not the return of the old, but a totally unanticipated new one massifying like hell. The Covid curve, which began rising from March first week, gathered pace through March, rose fast in the first two weeks of April and became a Tsunami later. In just seven weeks, Bihar saw a rise of daily new cases by 522 times, UP by 399 times, Andhra by 186 times, Delhi and Jharkhand by 150 times, West Bengal by 142 times and Rajasthan by 123 times — disaster of a size, a Tsunami, beyond anyone's anticipation. This is not the repeat of Covid 1.0 last year. It is a new, double mutant Indian variety that got generated in each place where Covid 1.0 had gone before. No expert could anticipate this. This was bound to flood hospitals and ICUs throwing all plans awry.

Need national will

This unprecedented Tsunami called for shared responsibility and collective will to face it and not to miss the facts or misdirect the discourse and shift the blame. That even in the face of a national disaster like Covid we showed the lack of collective will is a matter of concern. How the opposition parties branded the vaccine, Covaxin, approved by the government for emergency use exposed this national deficit. Congress leaders Randeep Singh Surjewala, Shashi Tharoor, Manish Tewari and Jairam Ramesh shouted in chorus against Covaxin. Anand Sharma said it was dangerous. Except Rajasthan, opposition-ruled Punjab, Chhattisgarh, Kerala, West Bengal and Jharkhand created doubts in people's mind about vaccines. Result, the people hesitated for the jab. In January only 33% beneficiaries were willing for the shot, 40% preferred to wait and 16% said 'No'. In March, those willing rose to 57%, those who preferred to wait halved and naysayers reduced to 6%. Three precious months were lost.

Against an average daily vaccination of 30 lakh, making it 9 crore a month, only 10.8 crore had first jabs, and 1.6 crore had double jabs till March, which could have been double that number had vaccine hesitancy not crept in. Also, as a nation we let down our guard. As the Google mobility data shows, despite Covid continuing we began leading a near normal life — 78% in entertainment, 87% in parks and public places, 92% in transportation, and 120% in shopping as compared to the pre-lockdown period. And mostly without social distancing and without wearing masks. Now we have a huge challenge — to face up to which we need collective national will. Are we capable of it?

Armed forces recall retired doctors to manage crisis

MAYANK SINGH @New Delhi

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi on Monday took stock of the preparations made by the Indian armed forces to assist the civil administration in Covid management. Chief of Defence Staff (CDS) General Bipin Rawat said retired medical professionals and those who had availed of pre-mature retirement from the forces in the past two years were being recalled to beef up the numbers.

An official statement from the PMO said the forces had recalled the retired personnel "to work in Covid facilities within proximity of their present place of residence".

On Friday, the Defence ministry had announced it was extending the tenure of SSC doctors in the Armed Forces Medical Services (AFMS) to " tide over the current surge in medical services". This will augment the strength of AFMS by 238 more doctors.

The CDS told the PM that nursing personnel were being employed in large numbers to complement the doctors at the hospitals. PM was also briefed that oxygen cylinders available with armed forces in various establishments would be released for hospitals and wherever possible, military medical infrastructure would be made available to civilians.

Modi reviewed the operations undertaken by IAF to transport oxygen and other essentials in India and abroad. Further, Kendriya and Rajya Sainik Welfare Boards, and officers posted in various headquarters in veterans' cells might be instructed to coordinate the services to expand the reach to remote areas.

Centre lays down rules for localised, graded lockdowns

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

With the daily infection numbers surpassing the previous day's tally as the second wave sweeps across the country, the Centre on Monday advised the states and UTs to enforce intensive localised lockdowns and create effective containment zones to break the chain and flatten the curve.

Union Home secretary Ajay Bhalla, in a communication to all the states and UTs, reiterated an advisory issued by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare on April 25, asking for better sensitisation of district authorities for the imposition of effective restrictions to contain the spread.

According to the rules issued by the Centre, states and UTs should impose restrictions when the positivity rate is 10% or above for a week and when over 60% hospital beds are occupied. The missive also suggests a graded response based on local situation .

States have been urged to go for intensive, local and focused containment network in districts, cities and areas based on the parameters specified by the Union Home ministry. Where or when to go for a lockdown should be based on evidence and analysis of the population affected, the geographical spread, hospital infrastructure, manpower and the ease of enforcing boundaries.

States have been given a broad framework for an "objective, transparent, and epidemiologically sound decision-making on imposing a lockdown". Bhalla said the district authorities should be sensitised on the strategy for imposing restrictions, which should be widely disseminated to the public and to the field functionaries for their effective implementation. Considering the unprecedented recent spike, he said there is an urgent need for the states and UTs to consider strict management and control measures.

District authorities should be sensitised on the strategy for imposing restrictions, which should be widely disseminated to the public also

Ajay Bhalla, Union Home Secretary

"All States/ UTs have also been advised to consider a further graded response in accordance with local situation, requirements and resources. I would, therefore, urge you to issue directions to district authorities in your State/ UT, to take all necessary measures, as advised by MoHFW in their letter, for the implementation of the containment framework, so as to flatten the curve," Bhalla said. The coronavirus situation continues to be worrisome in India with 3,52,991 people testing positive and a record 2,812 deaths reported on Monday.

The suggestion to go for localised lockdowns is consistent with the Union government's thinking that bringing economic activities to a complete standstill should be the last option. In his recent Mann Ki Baat, PM Modi had urged governments to consider lockdown in extreme cases alone.

34 doctors died in line of duty in April, says IMA

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

AT least 34 doctors have died in India in April, so far, due to coronavirus infection as a fierce second wave of the pandemic sweeps across the country, details released by the Indian Medical Association on Monday showed.

The youngest one to succumb was a 28 year-old resident doctor in Maharashtra, while two others were in their 30s, as per the compilation by the largest body of doctors in the country. While a majority of the doctors who died in the second wave was in the age group of 50-70 years, a considerable number of the fallen fell in the 40–49 year age group. The highest number of doctor fatalities — five each — was reported from Bihar and Maharashtra, while four each died in Delhi and Uttar Pradesh.

Ravi Wankhedkar, a senior member of the association, told this newspaper that it was trying to ascertain the vaccination status of each of the fallen doctors.

The vaccination drive that started on January 16 was first open for healthcare workers. The Centre recently said that over 80% healthcare workers had taken at least the first jab out of the two-shot course. Last year, when the Union government had said it had not kept any track of the number of doctors that had died due to the contagion, the IMA data had pegged the number at over 730. Under the ₹50 lakh insurance scheme meant for healthcare workers dying in the line of duty as part of the Pradhan Mantri Garib Kalyan package, only 287 claims had been settled till a week ago, the Union health ministry had said. Of the 287, families of 162 doctors were the beneficiaries.

While the government has said that the rate of breakthrough infections is minuscule post Covid-19 in India so far, IMA authorities said that details of the vaccination status of the fallen doctors would give a clearer picture on shot's effectiveness.

Young, too, at great risk

If the first wave had rendered the elderly as vulnerable, the second wave has made the younger populace susceptible as was evidenced in the age group of that fell to the virus. A considerable number of the fallen belonged to the age group of 40-49, and the youngest was just 28-year-old

U.S. ASSURES STEADY VAX RAW MATERIAL SUPPLY

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@New Delhi

US President Joe Biden on Monday expressed his commitment to support India's fight against Covid by quickly deploying resources like therapeutics and ventilators and exporting vaccine raw materials, in a telephonic conversation with Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

The two leaders discussed the pandemic situation in their countries, including India's ongoing efforts to contain a second wave. Modi thanked Biden for his assistance. "Had a fruitful conversation with @POTUS @JoeBiden today. We discussed the evolving COVID situation in both countries in detail. I thanked President Biden for the support," Modi tweeted.

"My discussion with @POTUS @JoeBiden also underscored the importance of smooth and efficient supply chains of vaccine raw materials and medicines," another tweet read.

A White House readout of the conversation said Biden pledged America's support to India, which has been impacted by the recent surge in Covid-19 cases. In response, the United States is providing a range of emergency assistance, including oxygen-related supplies, vaccine materials, and therapeutics."

U'khand active caseload jumped 1,800% in 25 days

VINEET UPADHYAY @Dehradun

An explosive 1,800% spike in active cases in Uttarakhand between March 31 and April 24, a period coinciding with the Haridwar Mahakumbh, indicates that the congregation may have turned into a super spreader event in the state.

Prior to the event, the total number of active cases in the hill state stood at 1,863 (March 31). However, after the event started on April 1, the number of active cases reached a whopping 33,330 (April 24). According to the government data, over 35 lakh people had gathered at Haridwar on April 12 and the figure was pegged at over 13.51 lakh on April 14. Both the days were considered as auspicious for rituals.

Government spokesman and minister Subodh Uniyal said complacency and arrival of tourists were to be blamed for the surge.

"We are doing everything to ensure that this is over soon," he added.

The last Shahi Snan of Kumbh is scheduled for Tuesday. Responding queries on the event, Mahant Ravindra Puri, secretary of Niranjani Akhada – the second most prominent akhada among the 14 — said: "We have already informed that the Shahi Snan would be symbolic."

With Char Dham Yatra scheduled for next month, the HC has ordered the state to ensure it does not turn into another Kumbh. It has ordered the government to formulate guidelines for the yatra.

Ravinath Raman, chairman of Char Dham Devsthanam Board and commissioner of Garhwal division said, "The guidelines will be issued soon with every possible precaution so that the spread is not amplified. Our SOP will be on the lines of the safety measures of the Centre and state government and what we issued last year with added precautions."

CM cites Madras HC observation, says around 2L central forces deployed without testing

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

WELCOMING the Madras High Court's observation that the Election Commission is the "the most irresponsible institution" for the alleged spread of the second wave of coronavirus in the country, West Bengal Chief Minister Mamata Banerjee on Monday once again hit out at the panel for deploying around two lakh central forces personnel in the state for over a month without conducting their Covid-19 tests.

She also held the central forces, which were brought from other states, responsible for spreading infection in Bengal.

"I welcome the Madras High Court observation... The commission has deployed around two lakh central force personnel and none of them went through the RT-PCR test. They are roaming from one place to another and spreading virus in the state," alleged Banerjee.

She also demanded immediate withdrawal of the central forces from West Bengal. "Do we need such a huge volume of police personnel from outside the state to conduct the polls? Why can't the panel trust the state police force?" she asked.

The CM also lashed out at Prime Minister Narendra Modi for allegedly spreading the virus by bringing in his supporters from other states for his election rallies.

"The commission is nothing but a mirror of the BJP. He (Modi) addressed several rallies where Covid safety protocols were flouted. The BJP brought a countless number of outsiders during the poll campaign that led to the Covid surge," she said.

The Trinamool Congress supremo said her party had repeatedly requested to club the last three phases of the polling for the safety of the common man.

"The elections were over in other states within three phases. What prompted them to conduct the elections in Bengal in eight phases? Despite our several requests, the panel didn't pay any heed to them. It has become a parrot and a mynah of the BJP," she alleged.

Banerjee also castigated the Election Commission's decision to ban roadshows and public rallies with more than 500 people.

"The decision was taken on the same day when Modi cancelled his four public rallies on April 23," she said.

'What was the need for 8-phase elections?'

Mamata said the elections were over in other states within three phases. "What prompted them to conduct the polls in Bengal in eight phases? It has become a parrot and a mynah of the BJP," she alleged.

BJP crossed magic figure after sixth phase: Nadda

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Kolkata

BJP national president J P Nadda on Monday claimed that his party had crossed the magic figure of 148 seats after the sixth phase of the West Bengal Assembly elections held on April 22.

He also expressed gratitude to the electorates for supporting the BJP.

"The BJP is all set to come to power in West Bengal. We have already crossed 148 seats out of 294 required to form the government in the state. In the last two phases, the BJP will touch its target of bagging 200 constituencies," said Nadda at a press conference in Kolkata as he concluded his party's high-octane campaign for the West Bengal elections.

Nadda also said the elections in the state remained peaceful this time as his party workers did not fall into the trap of the ruling Trinamool Congress.

"TMC workers had been instigating our party workers since the first phase. But it was our foot-soldiers who did not step into their trap. The people voted for the BJP in large numbers and rejected the misrule of the Mamata Banerjee government," he added.

He reiterated that the BJP would keep its promise of building a "Sonar Bangla" and the process will start after May 2, the counting day.

Nadda accused Banerjee of misleading people of West Bengal on various issues, ranging from "insider-outsider" to Covid vaccination during the campaigning.

He also asserted his party had upheld the culture and legacy of Bengal as against the "insulting" language adopted by Banerjee against the BJP leadership.

SEVENTH PHASE POLLING ENDS PEACEFULLY

Kolkata: Other than a few stray incidents of violence, the voting for 34 Assembly constituencies was held peacefully in the seventh phase of the elections on Monday. The Election Commission recorded 75.06 per cent voter turnout till 5 pm. Chief minister Mamata Banerjee and her nephew Abhishek Banerjee exercised their franchise. Former chief minister Budhhadeb Bhattacharjee could not turnout at the polling booth in Ballygunje constituency because of his illness. In Raninagar, Murshidabad, a woman was injured when crude bombs were hurled by alleged Trinamool Congress supporters. She was admitted to a local hospital with splinter injuries. A few incidents of scuffle between TMC and BJP supporters were reported from Asansol area. Actor-turned TMC candidate Sayoni Ghosh alleged that BJP activists tried to jam booths in her Asansole South constituency. Sayoni's contender and BJP's women wing chief Agnimitra Paul, however, refuted the allegation.

Vehicles torched, roads dug up during bandh called by Maoists

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Raipur

THE Maoists on Monday torched a few vehicles, damaged roads and tried to target a security base camp during 'Bharat bandh' called by the outlawed CPI (Maoist) in areas known for their presence in Chhattisgarh. The bandh, however, had no impact on the daily lives of people.

"The Maoists dug up a few roads, blocked some routes in interior areas and burnt vehicles engaged in road construction works in Sukma. Except a few such incidents meant to register their presence, there was no effect of their bandh call across the conflict zone of Bastar. The security forces remained vigilant and no major untoward incident was reported from anywhere," said a senior police officer.

On Sunday the rebels had tried to damage a railway track in Dantewada, but the alert train driver averted a tragedy.

The Central Committee of the banned CPI (Maoist) called for 'Bharat Bandh' in protest against the alleged suppression of people's movements. Chhattisgarh has 14 out of the 28 districts affected by Left-wing extremists.

Rebels blow up parts of Howrah-Mumbai rail line

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Ranchi

MAOISTS blew up a railway track on Howrah-Mumbai main line in West Singhbhum district of Jharkhand during the daylong 'Bharat bandh' called by them on Monday.

The Jharkhand police said the incident took place around 2:30 am on Monday between Lotapahar and Sonua stations under Chakradharpur rail division where Maoists blew up the track by triggering a landmine.

"The IED weighing around 20-25 kg damaged around 3.5-ft of the rail track. We suspect a local squad of the Maoists active in the region for the sabotage," said Chaibasa Superintendent of Police Ajay Linda.

The railway traffic on the busy line was affected for a few hours and was restored, the police official added.

Railway officials swung into action after they were informed by a loco pilot that he had observed noise on the track and spotted a red banner.

SC urged to intervene in Kappan's case

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Editors Guild of India has expressed concern over the "inhumane treatment" meted out to journalist Siddique Kappan in UP and urged the Supreme Court to intervene to ensure a fair trial.

It demanded that Kappan be given proper medical care and treated with dignity. His wife had alleged that he was tied to a hospital bed after having tested positive for Covid-19 at a Mathura hospital. He was unable to access the toilet or take his food.

Expressing shock over the incident, the Guild said this should "stir" the "nation's conscience".

"...It is further shocking that the Supreme Court yet not intervened in this case to ensure a fair trial of the journalist even though habeas corpus petition challenging his arrest has been pending before the court for the past six months. All of this goes against the basic canons of a constitutional democracy where independent journalistic enterprises need to be protected," it said.

Cop among 3 held in connection with abduction of ONGC staff in Assam

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

AN Assam Police constable was among three persons arrested on Monday for their alleged involvement in the abduction of three employees of the Oil and Natural Gas Corporation (ONGC).

Basanta Buragohain, a constable with the 25th AP (ONGC) Battalion, was arrested from his Sadiya residence in Tinsukia district. The two other arrested persons were Biraj Chetia of Dibrugarh district and Rahul Mohan of Sivasagar district. Two other policemen were absconding. All three of them were deployed at the ONGC's work-over-rig site in Sivasagar district from where the three employees were abducted by ULFA militants in the wee hours of Wednesday.

DGP Bhaskar Jyoti Mahanta said the police would not spare anyone found involved in the case. He also said efforts were on to trace out and rescue the third abducted employee.

Junior engineering assistant Alakesh Saikia and junior technician Mohini Mohan Gogoi were rescued by the security forces following a gunfight with the militants near Totokchingnyu village in Nagaland on Friday night. The fate of the third employee Ritul Saikia, a junior technician, is, however, still not known.

The ULFA had on Saturday claimed that the three employees were handed over to the villagers as the outfit was concerned about their safety amidst the gunfight. But the two rescued employees rubbished the ULFA's narrative.

Meanwhile, a massive search operation is on for the missing third employee in Nagaland.

Cap on domestic flight fares to continue

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

WITH exponential rise in Covid-19 cases in the country, aviation regulator DGCA has extended the capping on domestic flight fares till May 31. Moreover, the government has also extended the restriction on domestic flight operations which is currently at 80 per cent of the capacity.

The latest statement from the Directorate General of Civil Aviation said that the new move has been made in view of the prevailing Covid-19 situation.

Earlier, the aviation regulator had approved 18,843 flights per week from 108 airports for the summer schedule, which begins on last Sunday of March and ends on last Sunday of October.

Last month the DGCA in a circular said that suspension of international flights has been further extended till April 30. However, international scheduled flights may be allowed on case-to-case basis. Fare caps were put in place after domestic operations were allowed to resume in May last year following of grounding of operations for two months.

₹25,000 TA for Durbar Move employees

Although the Lt Governor administration has deferred the half-yearly Durbar Move (shifting of the seat of governance to Srinagar from Jammu), the government has announced a special travel allowance of ₹25,000 for all Darbar Move employees. The special travel allowance has been sanctioned irrespective of whether the staff move to Srinagar or work from Jammu in view of surge in Covid cases. While deferring the half-yearly Darbar Move to Srinagar on April 15, the government announced that the Civil Secretariat, the seat of governance, shall function both from Srinagar and Jammu.

50% attendance in closed edu institutions mandatory

Faced with resentment from teachers and non-teaching school staff, authorities have restricted attendance to 50 per cent of the available staff in government-run educational institutions, which were closed in view of a surge in Covid-19 cases. An official order in this regard reads that during the closure of educational institutions — including schools, colleges, universities and technical education – in-person attendance of staff shall be restricted to 50 per cent. Earlier, the government had made it mandatory for all teaching and non-teaching staff to attend the educational institutions daily, causing an outcry from the affected parties, who alleged that they were susceptible to contracting Covid-19 as most of them used public transport. They had asked the administration to allow them to take online classes from their homes.

59 Women Help Desks in Kashmir

At least 59 Women Help Desks have been set up in police stations across Kashmir to make the facilities more accessible for women. These help desks will be the first and single-point contact for women walking into a police station. The in-charges at these facilities would be women, who have been specially trained to respond to calls made by victims of domestic violence. It will provide a prompt and a reliable response mechanism to the victims 24×7. The help desks' creation follows a spike in incidence of domestic violence against women, who can dial 112 for emergency response.

All public parks in J&K closed due to virus surge

In view of a consistent surge in Covid cases in Jammu and Kashmir, especially in the two capital cities of Srinagar and Jammu, the government has ordered closure of all paid public parks in the Union Territory till further orders. No sooner had the number of cases spiked in the first week of April than doctors, civil society members and traders began urging the government to shut public parks. The UT recorded 2,381 positive cases on Sunday, the highest single-day spike since the pandemic's outbreak. The government has also increased the duration of night curfew by two hours; it will now span till 6 am from 8 pm.

Will share AstraZeneca vax with world: US

WASHINGTON

THE US will begin sharing its entire pipeline of vaccines from AstraZeneca once the Covid-19 vaccine clear federal safety reviews, the White House said on Monday, with as many as 60 million doses expected to be available for export in the coming months.

The move greatly expands on the Biden administration's action last month to share about 4 million doses of the vaccine with Mexico and Canada.

The move comes as the White House is increasingly assured about the supply of the three vaccines being administered in the US, particularly following the restart of the single-dose Johnson & Johnson shot over the weekend. "Given the strong portfolio of vaccines that the US already has and that have been authorised by the FDA, and given that the AstraZeneca vaccine is not authorised for use in the US, we do not need to use the AstraZeneca vaccine here during the next several months," said White House Covid-19 coordinator Jeff Zients.

DIVERSITY, THE BIG WINNER AT OSCARS

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

THE 93rd Academy Awards was held on Sunday, April 25, in Los Angeles. Owing to the raging pandemic, the show was a mix of both virtual and in-person presentations. Chloe Zhao made history as the first woman of colour to be named the Best Director for 'Nomadland' and became only the second woman filmmaker to win the award after Kathryn Bigelow's win in 2010 for 'The Hurt Locker'. "This is for everyone who has the faith and courage to hold on to the goodness in themselves, and hold on to the goodness in each other," Zhao said, in her acceptance speech.

Frances McDormand was named the Best Actress for her performance in 'Nomadland' as Fern, a middle-aged woman who adapts to a vagabond lifestyle and sets out on a healing journey. The award marked McDormand's third win, after 'Fargo' in 1997 and 'Three Billboards Outside Ebbing, Missouri' in 2018. "I have no words. My voice is in my sword. We know the sword is our work and I like work. Thank you for knowing that and thanks for this," said McDormand, who became the fourth actress to win three Oscars after Katharine Hepburn, Ingrid Bergman, and Meryl Streep.

'Nomadland' also won the coveted Best Picture award. A scathing portrayal of the harsh realities caused by an economic slowdown, the film blends the intimacy of a documentary with the panoramic beauty of cinema. The film, with its critical take on a materialistic lifestyle and capitalistic sentiments, was the big winner of the day.

'Sound of Metal' won its well-deserved Best Sound award for putting its sound design to effectively communicate the plight of a musician who gradually loses his hearing ability. It was also bestowed with the Best Editing award. Had Riz Ahmed won his acting trophy for 'Sound of Metal', he would have been ingrained in the history of Oscars as the first Muslim to win Best Actor. Similarly, Chadwick Boseman's win would have made him the first Black man to posthumously win the top honour in acting.

The biggest surprise in an otherwise straightforward show came in the form of the reordering of the Best Picture and Best Actor slots. Announcing the Best Picture last has remained the Oscars' norm since 1948 with this convention being disrupted only once in 1971, when the Best Picture announcement was followed by a special honorary award for Charlie Chaplin.

This year's order hinted at a celebration of Boseman's work, with the decision to pick Anthony Hopkins ('The Father') for the Best Actor award coming across as an upset. This is Anthony Hopkins' second Best Actor trophy after his previous win for 'Silence of the Lambs'. At 83, Hopkins is the oldest actor to get an Academy Award.

Hopkins, who couldn't attend the event in person, posted a video later to thank the Academy. "I did not expect to get this award. I am really grateful to the Academy and I feel very privileged and honoured," he said in the video. Hopkins also paid tribute to Boseman and said that the actor "was taken from us far too early."

Emerald Fennel, whose direction nomination alongside Zhao, marked the first time two female filmmakers were nominated in that category, won the Best Original Screenplay for 'Promising Young Woman'. Fennel became the first woman to bag an award in the screenwriting category since Diablo Cody's win for Juno in 2008.

Govt sets up helpdesk to settle trade issues

The helpdesk will enable speedy clearance of documentation processes for Covid 19-related exports and imports

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

IN a bid to streamline the process of exports and imports of essential items like oxygen, Covid-19 drugs and other related items, the commerce ministry on Monday said it has started a Covid-19 helpdesk.

The helpdesk is aimed at speedy resolution of issues of exporters and importers pertaining to international trade such as customs clearance delays and banking matters, apart from clearing various documentation processes, according to an official statement.

The Directorate General of Foreign Trade (DGFT), an arm of the commerce ministry, will monitor the status of exports and imports, and difficulties being faced by trade stakeholders in view of the surge in Covid-19 cases. The decision was taken after various trade stakeholders sought suitable resolutions to issues arising in respect of international trade. "Helpdesk would also collect and collate trade related issues concerning other ministries/ departments/ agencies of central and state governments and will coordinate to seek their support and provide possible resolution," the ministry said.

To handhold the trade relating to clearances, an online form has been created to seek details in a structured format and redress the grievances. "The status of resolutions and feedback may be tracked using the status tracker under the DGFT helpdesk services. Email and SMS would also be sent as and when the status are updated," it added.

The government on Saturday exempted basic customs duty on import of COVID vaccine, medical-grade oxygen and related equipment to boost domestic availability and make them cheaper. Accordingly, the Central Board of Indirect Taxes and Customs (CBIC) had directed its officers to clear all import consignments, including life-saving drugs and oxygen equipment, used in Covid-19 treatment on the highest priority. "It is requested that all customs formations may be sensitised of the urgency of this matter and may be directed to give high priority for customs clearance of import of Covid-related goods," it noted.

Names of officials made public

CBIC has already made public the names and contact details of nodal officers for facilitating Covid-19 customs assistance to trade. The apex decision-making body has asked all customs zones to clear such items in the shortest possible time.

RBI caps tenure of private bank CEOs at 15 years

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

THE Reserve Bank of India on Monday capped both the tenure and age limit for senior management including that of chairmen in all private banks. While the cap for non-executive directors, and chairman is set at 75 years, their tenure is fixed for 8 years. They can rejoin after 3 years, if found fit.

Likewise, the posts of Managing Director (MD), Chief Executive Officer (CEO) as well as Whole Time Directors (WTD) are capped at not more than 15 years.

These new norms will be applicable for all private sector banks including small finance banks and wholly-owned subsidiaries of foreign banks. However, foreign banks with branches are excluded.

Banks have to implement this by October, 1. The upper age limit is fixed at 70 years. Besides, MDs & CEOs or WTDs who have already completed 12 or 15 years by October 1, are allowed to complete their current term. The circular is an outcome of the discussion paper issued last June to review the framework for governance in commercial banks to address a few operative aspects.

"It is clarified that the extant instructions on upper age limit for MD & CEO and WTDs in the private sector banks would continue and no person can continue as MD & CEO or WTD beyond the age of 70 years.

Within the overall limit of 70 years, as part of their internal policy, individual banks' Boards are free to prescribe a lower retirement age for the WTDs, including the MD & CEO. MD & CEO or WTD who is also a promoter/major shareholder, cannot hold these posts for more than 12 years. However, in extraordinary circumstances, at the sole discretion of the Reserve Bank such MD & CEO or WTDs may be allowed to continue up to 15 years, " it noted.

Individuals will be eligible for re-appointment as MD & CEO or WTD in the same bank, if considered necessary and desirable by the board, after a gap of three years, subject to meeting other conditions. During this cooling period, they shall not be appointed or associated with the bank or its group entities in any capacity, either directly or indirectly.

UP-based Shivalik Small Finance Bank starts operations

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

SHIVALIK Small Finance Bank has commenced operations as a small finance bank with effect from April 26. It has become India's first bank to transition from an urban co-operative bank to a Small Finance Bank.

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI), in a statement, said it has issued a licence to the bank under Section 22 (1) of the Banking Regulation Act, 1949 to carry on the business of small finance bank in India. Shivalik Mercantile Co-operative Bank Limited was granted in-principle approval for transition into a small finance bank on January 6, 2020, under the "Scheme on voluntary transition of Urban Co-operative Bank into a Small Finance Bank" issued on September 27, 2018. The in-principle approval gave the lender 18 months' time to commence the business.

According to the scheme, the minimum net worth of the proposed SFB was set at ₹100 crore and the minimum capital adequacy ratio of 15 per cent from the date of commencement of business. The 23-year old lender is registered under the Multi-state Co-operative Societies Act 2002 and operates through 31 branches across Uttar Pradesh and parts of Madhya Pradesh and Uttarakhand. It acquired two Madhya Pradesh-based cooperative banks in 2010 and 2012. As on March 31, 2020, the total business size of the bank was approximately ₹1,800 crore. According to its annual report, the bank's net worth stood at ₹77.21 crore and capital adequacy ratio was at 13.07 per cent as on March 2019. Its total deposit base was ₹1,140 crore and total advances was at ₹719 crore until March 31, 2020.

SECOND WAVE

NO LIGHT IN SIGHT FOR BRUISED SECTORS

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE second Covid-19 wave has derailed recovery of multiple sectors, including automobiles, aviation and construction, that were cruising towards normalcy. The battered auto industry witnessed significant improvement during October-February of the previous financial year (FY21), but is now going through a slump phase. Likewise, sentiments in the housing sector are slowly moving towards the negative zone. As for the aviation sector, domestic air traffic has already fallen by more than half in recent days and industry executives expect rising Covid-19 cases and increasing lockdown restriction from various states will remain an overhang on air traffic, derailing its recovery.

"Walk-ins at showrooms are down by over 50 per cent and fresh bookings have dried up completely," Vinkesh Gulati, president of auto dealer body FADA told this publication. "The passenger vehicle (PV) segment is placed better as we have bookings for 2-3 months, but the two-wheeler segment is in a bad shape as inventory level here is very high at about 60-70 days but sales have rock-bottomed," he added. According to Gulati, PV retail sales will fall month-on-month in April and overall auto sales in Q1FY22 would be lower by 30 per cent when compared with sales during Q1FY2020, he said. The sector may now recover only in the third quarter of this fiscal.

Coming to housing sector, industry executives believe that the April-June quarter will get impacted due to the rampant spread of the virus.

"The second wave is not expected to end the good run that we saw in the recent months but will be a blip that would last for 2-3 months," said Anuj Puri, Chairman - ANAROCK Property Consultants. Sales may fall by 10-15 per cent in Mumbai region but will recover in the subsequent quarters as cases recede.

Similarly, the resurgence in Covid-19 cases has cast a dark shadow on the aviation sector with the top three airlines expected to log net losses of ₹10,000 crore this year, say analysts. "The industry is seeing a drop of 30 per cent in booking, when compared to March numbers," said Nishant Pitti, co-founder of EaseMyTrip.

HDFC Life Insurance profit up 2% led by new premiums

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

Private sector HDFC Life Insurance reported a two per cent increase in standalone net profit in the quarter ended March 31, 2021, at ₹317.94 crore led by a 45 per cent growth in new premiums collected. Its net profit was ₹311.71 crore in the same period in 2019-20. For 2020-21, its net profit rose five per cent to ₹1,360.1 crore against ₹1,295.27 crore in 2019-20.

The insurer's net premium income grew by a robust 23 per cent to ₹12,868.01 crore for the fourth quarter of 2020-21 versus ₹10,464 crore a year ago.

'Fresh wave of Covid-19 may pull down growth below double digit'

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

MANY economists, in the last few days, have downgraded India's economic growth forecasts, but they still expect to see a double-digit growth. However, as Covid-19 infections surge and the state government announces lockdown to curb the spread of the deadly virus, the bullish double-digit growth forecast is looking increasingly in doubt, said former Finance Secretary S C Garg.

"It is difficult to estimate the intensity and length of surge and virus caseload. How the government handles its response to this unfolding tragedy, the kind of restrictions which the governments might put in place and how the people respond will determine the impact on both demand and supply," he said. Just two ago, the International Monetary Fund (IMF) projected an impressive 12.5 per cent growth rate for the country in 2021. The Economic Survey projected a growth rate of 11 per cent, while the Reserve Bank of India retained its growth forecast at 10.5 per cent for the ongoing financial year. As per the RBI estimates, economic growth expected to be 26.2 per cent in Q1, 8.3 per cent in Q2, 5.4 per cent in Q3 and 6.2 per cent in Q4 this fiscal. Garg, in a blog post, noted that the Covid-19 surge in the second wave and the flurry of restrictions imposed have dented the growth impulse for the year.

Economists, meanwhile, believe that India's growth story is still credible. "This second wave of virus cases may delay the recovery, but it is unlikely in Fitch's view to derail it," Fitch ratings company said in a statement. It stuck to its 12.8 per cent GDP growth forecast for the current fiscal.

According to Garg, the first-quarter growth is expected to be tempered around 15-20 per cent as against a contraction of about 24 per cent during the same period last fiscal. Giving assessment for the entire financial year, he said, "At this point of time, 2021-22 growth going down to a little below 10 per cent looks quite real".

ON most days, Twitter is all that's wrong with the internet: anonymous trolls, homophobic posts, people out to make a quick buck through duplicitous means and racists. Over the last few weeks though, several Indians have used Twitter as a platform to launch one of the country's biggest SOS campaigns to help people get all the assistance they need to survive this second wave of Covid-19.

Handles

@Hemkunt_Fdn

It has ranged from helping people source oxygen cylinders, remdesivir vials, ICU beds, home-cooked food for isolated patients. With normal lines of communication creaking under enormous stress — Covid-19 control rooms have only so many people they can speak to at a time and waiting for already overburdened hospital staff to address phone lines is a no-no as oxygen saturation levels drop without warning — the social media space has proved to be life-saving for several patients.

Reuters reported of one such case a week ago. "Serious #covid19 patient in #Delhi with oxygen level 62 needs immediate hospital bed," a user posted. The user posted this on the micro-blogging website on the morning of April 16. Based on one of the leads, the person found a bed eight hours later. "It was help online that worked as people responded with information," she was quoted as saying by the news agency.

That's why more and more people, including doctors at leading hospitals, have turned to the medium. How it works is simple enough. After a person verifies information, they post it on their handle (with the likes of actor Shraddha Srinath and former cricketer Wasim Jaffer amplifying requests, Twitter's reach is an added bonus). For example, if a person is after oxygen, people, including volunteer driven communities like The Product Group, start looking for suppliers who have medical oxygen with them. Once that information is sourced and verified, the two parties are introduced to each other either offline or they are tagged on Twitter.

It's also played a big role in connecting critically ill people with the likes of Hemkunt Foundation, an 'NGO that aims to provide humanitarian aid to marginalised sections of society', according to their website. After asking for donations to make it possible, they arranged 'Drive Thru #O2ForYou, an initiative to distribute free unlimited oxygen to Covid19 patients while being in cars itself. We have tents available for critical patients,' they posted on their handle.

On Monday night, one volunteer was urgently seeking an oxygen-supported bed for an individual in Delhi. Another volunteer quietly gave them a link about the opening of a few beds in a hospital. That information was passed on to the patient's attender. Thus begins another cycle of crucial information sharing on Twitter.

#VaccineChallenge drive from the pulpit

ANU KURUVILLA @ Kochi

COVID positive households and individuals in and around St George Church at Kalady don't feel isolated in their battle against the disease, thanks to Fr John Puthuva, the vicar of the church. Ever since the pandemic broke out, the vicar has been visiting houses of patients to offer them comfort and companionship every day.

Going a step further, he recently launched an awareness drive from the pulpit, urging his parishioners to participate in the #VaccineChallenge. "I have been encouraging the parishioners to contribute to the CM's Distress Relief Fund to ensure people receive vaccines for free as I see it as a noble gesture," said the Father, who took charge of the parish two years ago. "We have also initiated a fund-raiser within the church to assist financially weak families get vaccinated," he said. Fr John also took to Facebook to urge others to be part of the #VaccineChallenge. His post has gone viral. He wrote, "We are going through tough times and have to cross the deep ocean of sorrow as an effect of Covid. We can't falter and must make a collective effort to trounce this pandemic. This is not the time for debates or rhetorics. History has shown that humans have been able to overcome adversities through perseverance. And the first step towards it is to get vaccinated. To ensure this, we need to make a generous contribution to CMDRF." He has donated a month's salary towards the initiative. As part of his daily routine, Fr John meets with Covid patients who are in home quarantine. "I stand at the gate and talk to them to enquire about their well being. I bring them whatever essential items they require," he said. The parish, most recently under Fr John's leadership, had provided meat, fish and other essentials to the quarantined families to ensure they did not feel isolated.

No mask, no mass

Fr John received several calls from vicars of other churches when he decided to put up a board with the message 'no mask, no mass' outside the St George Church.

How they do it?

A person in need of financial help for vaccination has to approach the parish. Once they notify the name of the hospital and the amount required, the bill is cleared by depositing the money with the hospital.

Sajan, Adithya's Uzbek meet records not ratified

INDRANEEL DAS @ Chennai

THE Uzbekistan swimming championships where top Indian swimmers participated has seemingly plunged into a controversy after SP Likith complained about discrepancy while recording timings. He alleged that the 100m freestyle heats on the first day and 100m butterfly heats on the final day were fudged to help host swimmers attain 'A' qualifying standards for the Tokyo Olympics.

Two Indian swimmers — Sajan Prakash and Adithya Dinesh — seem to have been caught in a sub-plot. According to the final start list in the 100m butterfly, Sajan clocked a 'national record' while Adithya would have cracked a 'B' qualification mark of Tokyo Olympics. Sajan's timing of 52.74s would be better than the existing national mark of 52.77s set by Virdhawal Khade way back in 2009. However, none of these records have been ratified by the Swimming Federation of India because world swimming federation (FINA) was looking into the matter.

Though the records of two Uzbekistan swimmers' were updated on FINA website, the records of Indians were not. It is understood that the SFI has taken up the issue with the Asian Swimming Association who in turn took it up with the FINA.

The swimmers, especially the ones who fared well at the event and are looking forward to the Olympics, are jittery. More so, because the results of two events have not been updated by FINA. It might affect their rankings. With so much uncertainty around, the swimmers are not sure if they would get another international meet. The FINA apparently is reviewing the competition and there is a possibility of nullifying the competition if they find some mischief. Scrapping means Indian swimmers' participation would go waste.

SFI secretary Monal Choksi did acknowledge there was something wrong while recording time on the first day and the last day of the competition. "Our coaches spotted it and told the organizers that the results were not correct," he said. "We have brought it to the notice of the Asian Swimming Association and who in turn has taken it up with the FINA."

Lower-ranked shuttlers could suffer: Prannoy

MARTIN JOSEPH @ Kochi

THE postponement of the India Open recently was met with disappointment from some of the top shuttlers in India. It was done in the light of the increasing Covid cases in the country.

Ace shuttler HS Prannoy feels that while it might affect elite shuttlers in their quest for Olympic qualification, lack of events due to the pandemic could prove even more fatal for the lower ranked players.

"I fear that a lot of the lower-ranked players might drop out of the sport since one is not able to make a living and there are not a lot of competitions going on. It's a little better if you're a higher-ranked player but for those who are not in the top 30 or those lower, there are no tournaments happening and so where is your income coming from? So it's a grim situation for all the badminton players out there," said Prannoy.

Prannoy went on to suggest that postponing the India Open was inevitable and it was a catch-22 situation.

"When you look at everything that unfolded since then in our country, it was a good move. At the end of the day, safety is the most important thing and there were too many risks. Yes, it has affected the players but that's the kind of situation that we are in," he said. , Prannoy is mulling and calculating the expenses he will have to undertake to participate in the Malaysia Open followed by the Singapore Open in May and June respectively.

"Barring some of the top players, most of the badminton players are having to shell out of their pockets to participate in tournaments. Getting to the quarterfinal or semifinal is only when the whole thing becomes worthwhile. I still haven't decided on whether I will compete in these events."

Rani & 6 others Covid positive

PTI @ New Delhi

SEVEN members of the Indian women's hockey team, including captain Rani Rampal, and two support staff members on Monday tested positive for Covid-19 ahead of a training camp at the Sports Authority of India's (SAI) Centre in Bengaluru.

All the players and support staff are asymptomatic and have been placed under observation at the SAI centre. Besides Rampal, the others who have been infected are Savita Punia, Sharmila Devi, Rajani, Navjot Kaur, Navneet Kaur and Sushila.

"They were tested on April 24, post quarantine after their return from their respective home towns to their training base at SAI Bengaluru, as per the laid down protocol," the SAI said. The women's hockey core group had returned to the national camp in Bengaluru on Sunday after a 10-day break.

Take a bow! Deepika and Atanu bang on target

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Chennai

AMIDST doom and gloom, Indian archers brought some joy for sports fans in the country. With impressive outing on the final day of the Guatemala World Cup Stage 1, the recurve archers (both men and women) topped the medal standings by winning three gold and one bronze, their best-ever performance at this event. Star couple Deepika Kumari and Atanu Das led the show, capturing individual gold medals.

Deepika kept her calm to beat Mackenzie Brown of USA in the shoot-off match (6-5). This was the former World No 1's third individual gold in World Cups after 2012 (China) and 2018 (USA).

For Atanu, who's also Deepika's better half, this was his first taste of gold at this competition. The Arjuna awardee defeated Daniel Castro of Spain 6-4 in the decider. What's more impressive is that Deepika was also part of the women's team, also consisting of Ankita Bhakat and Komalika Bari (all from Jharkhand), who beat Mexican trio of Ana Vazquez, Alejandra Valentina and Aida Roman. This was India's fifth team gold — 2011 (Shanghai), 2013 (Colombia & Poland), 2014 (Poland) and 2021 (Guatemala) — in the history of the competition and Deepika has been part of all of them.

Atanu, meanwhile, also won a bronze medal along with Ankita Bhakat in the mixed event. The recurve duo put up an impressive show to outshine USA team of Brady Ellison (Olympic medallist and double world champ) and Casey Kaufhold.

Nadal beats Tsitsipas for Barcelona title

AFP @ Barcelona

RAFAEL NADAL saved a championship point to beat Stefanos Tsitsipas 6-4, 6-7 (6), 7-5 on Sunday and claim a 12th Barcelona Open title in the ATP's longest match of 2021.

The Spaniard secured his first title of the year and 87th of his career, denying Tsitsipas back-to-back triumphs following his maiden Masters 1000 title at Monte Carlo last week.

Nadal avenged his Australian Open quarterfinal loss to Tsitsipas. "It means a lot for me to play the final here and win," said Nadal. "I improved my level during the week and this trophy means a lot."

Nadal redeemed himself after a surprise quarterfinal exit in Monte Carlo, but the three sets dropped en route to the title represented the most in any of his wins here.

No man has won more matches this year than Tsitsipas (26) but the 22-year-old has lost all seven finals at the ATP 500 level. "Rafa, bravo. How many is that, 28? 28 Barcelona titles is not bad," joked Tsitsipas.

Each year the US approves dozens of new uses for cancer drugs based on early signs that they can shrink or slow the spread of tumours. But how often do those initial results translate into longer, healthier lives? The US FDA is convening on Tuesday the first meeting in a decade to consider nixing approvals from cancer drugs that have failed to show they extend or improve life.

NASA's mini helicopter Ingenuity has successfully completed its third flight on Mars, moving farther and faster than ever before

The lateral flight was a test for the helicopter's autonomous navigation system, which completes the route according to information received beforehand
"If Ingenuity flies too fast, the flight algorithm can't track surface features," NASA explained in a statement about the flight

Ingenuity's flights are challenging because of conditions vastly different from Earth's -- foremost among them a rarefied atmosphere that has less than one percent the density of our own
This means that Ingenuity's rotors, which span four feet, have to spin at 2,400 revolutions per minute to achieve lift -- about five times more than a helicopter on Earth

Apple's new privacy tool to escalate Facebook feud

iPhone & iPad users can opt out of activity-tracking across apps, upending the digital ads economy that firms such as FB rely on

TECHNOLOGY

Apple CEO Tim Cook and Mark Zuckerberg, chief executive of Facebook | AP

NEW DELHI: For more than two years now, Apple and Facebook have been at loggerheads over user privacy, with latter growing increasingly infamous over its lax data security. Now, Apple is releasing a privacy feature that will require apps to get permission from users before tracking their behaviour across other apps.

Most smartphone users are not aware that companies such as Facebook track their activity on other apps such as Spotify and Amazon. This data is used by advertisers to target users with more specific ads. With Apple's new software, iPhone users will see pop-up windows that ask their permission to allow this tracking.

Apple will begin requiring app makers to tell users what tracking information they want to gather and get permission to do so, displaying what have been referred to as "privacy nutrition labels."

The move by Apple, which has been in the works for months, has sparked a major rift with Facebook and other tech rivals and could have major implications for data privacy and the mobile ecosystem.

Digital ads are the lifeblood of internet giants such as Google and Facebook, and are credited with paying for the cornucopia of free online content and services.

Mobile Dev Memo analyst and strategist Eric Seufert said Apple's new framework could "upend" the app economy along with digital advertising more broadly, calling the new policy "a change agent."

Seufert said in a blog post, "It's impossible to dismiss the fact that digital advertising on mobile is conducted through what Apple defines as 'tracking': explicitly purging this activity from the ecosystem will require the mobile operating model to change."

Cook vs Zuckerberg

The New York Times reported on Monday on Apple's privacy feature could escalate the differences between Apple CEO Time Cook and Facebook chief Mark Zuckerberg.

The problem lies in the fundamental difference between the two tech industry leaders' visions for the future. "Mr. Cook wants people to pay a premium — often to Apple — for a safer, more private version of the internet. It is a strategy that keeps Apple firmly in control. But Mr. Zuckerberg champions an "open" internet where services like Facebook are effectively free. In that scenario, advertisers foot the bill," The Times wrote, also citing two unnamed people familiar with the matter that the relationship between the two executives has become more chilly.

After the Cambridge Analytica scandal of 2018, which highlighted Facebook's mass collection of user data, Cook began to distance Apple from Facebook and said that "some well-crafted regulation is necessary" for the social network. Apple then introduced new technological changes such as screen-time trackers and browser tracking protections, which can affect Facebook's digital business model of collecting user data.

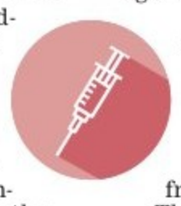
When Apple's latest privacy feature of app-tracking permissions was said to be in the works in 2019, Facebook took it as a declaration of war, the newspaper reported, citing three unnamed current and former employees. Facebook took out full-page ads in newspapers attacking the feature.

Zuckerberg said in an earnings call this year that Apple was becoming one of his company's biggest competitors, with its rival smartphone messaging service and tight grip on the App Store, the sole gateway onto iPhones.

Chinese airline halts flights hauling Covid O_2 supplies to India

MEDICINE

BEIJING: China's state-run Sichuan Airlines has suspended all its cargo flights to India for 15 days, causing major disruption to private traders' efforts to procure the much-needed oxygen concentrators and other medical supplies from the country despite Beijing reiterating its readiness to help India to deal with the latest surge of COVID-19 cases.



In a letter to the sales agents on Monday, the Sichuan Chuanhang Logistics Co. Ltd, the company which is part of the Sichuan Airlines said the airline has suspended its cargo flights on six routes, including Xian to Delhi, amid hectic efforts by private traders from both sides to procure oxygen concentrators from China.

In the letter seen by PTI, the company said, "in the face of sudden changes in the epidemic situation (in India), in order to reduce the number of imported cases, it is decided" to suspend the flights for the next 15 days. "Indian route has always been the core strategic route for Sichuan Airlines. This suspension has also caused great losses to our company. We are very sorry for the unchanged situation,' the letter said and sought the "understanding of its sales agents."

The suspension of cargo flights came as a surprise to agents and freight forwarders who are frantically trying to procure the oxygen concentrators from China.

There are also complaints of Chinese manufacturers jacking up the prices by 35 to 40%. The freight charges have been increased to over 20%, said Siddharth Sinha of Sino Global Logistics, a Shanghai-based freight forwarding company. It is challenging to rush the supplies as they have to be rerouted through Singapore and other countries through different airlines, which delays the much-needed supplies, he said.

How a monster star lives on the edge

SPACE

WASHINGTON: NASA's Hubble Space Telescope has spotted a brilliant "celebrity star," one of the brightest stars seen in our galaxy, surrounded by a glowing halo of gas and dust and living on the edge of destruction.

The star, called AG Carinae, is a few million years old and resides 20,000 light-years away inside our Milky Way galaxy. It is estimated to be up to 70 times more massive than our Sun and shines with the blinding brilliance of one million suns.

The price for its opulence is "living on the edge." It is waging a tug-of-war between gravity and radiation to avoid self-destruction.

Hubble's sharp vision revealed the most prominent features of AG Carinae -- filamentary structures shaped like tadpoles and lopsided bubbles. These structures are dust clumps illuminated by the star's reflected light.

The tadpole-shaped features, most prominent at left and bottom, are denser dust clumps that have been sculpted by the stellar wind.

The image was taken in visible and ultraviolet light. Ultraviolet light offers a slightly clearer view of the filamentary dust structures that extend all the way down toward the star. Hubble is ideally suited for ultraviolet-light observations because this wavelength range can only be viewed from space.

FACT OF THE MATTER

False alarm for SpaceX crew

SPACE

SpaceX's four astronauts had barely settled into orbit last Friday when they were ordered back into their spacesuits because of a potential collision with orbiting junk. It turns out there was no object and no threat, the US Space Command acknowledged Monday. The false alarm is under review. Astronauts typically get a fair amount of advance notice of potential close calls, with enough time to even dodge out of the way, if necessary. Friday's situation, however, popped up quickly — just several hours after liftoff. It was believed on Friday that an object was going to come close to the SpaceX capsule carrying a crew to the International Space Station.

Virus spread in dorms

HEALTH

Using a povidone-iodine throat spray and the oral malaria drug hydroxychloroquine has been found effective in curbing the spread of the coronavirus. The six-week long study, led by researchers from the National University Hospital (in Singapore, involved more than 3,000 migrant workers from India, Bangladesh, China and Myanmar living in a closed and high-exposure setting in the Tuas South dormitory. The results showed that among those who used throat spray thrice a day, only 46% contracted the disease. This is compared to 49% among those who took hydroxychloroquine and 70% who took Vitamin C.

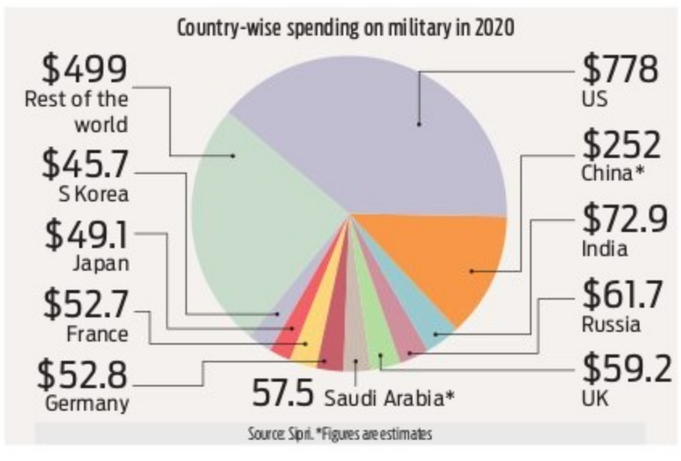
Global military spending grows by almost $2 trillion in 2020 despite pandemic



DATA

STOCKHOLM: Military expenditure worldwide rose to nearly $2 trillion in 2020, defying the economic impact of the Covid-19 pandemic, researchers said Monday.

Global military spending increased by 2.6 percent to $1,981 billion (about 1,650 billion euros) in 2020, when global GDP shrank 4.4 percent, according to a report from the Stockholm International Peace Research Institute (SIPRI).

Diego Lopes da Silva, one of report's authors, told AFP the development was unexpected.

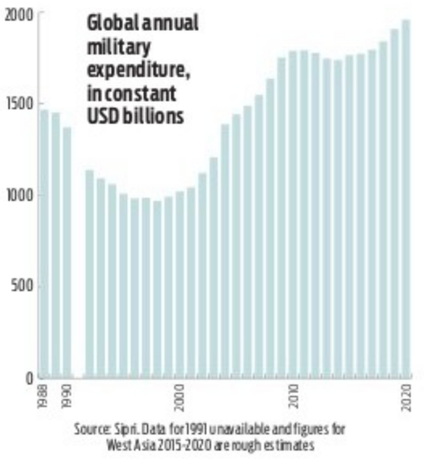
"Because of the pandemic, one would think military spending would decrease," he said.

"But it's possible to conclude with some certainty that Covid-19 did not have a significant impact on global military spending, in 2020 at least," Lopes da Silva said.

He cautioned however that due to the nature of military spending, it could take time for countries "to adapt to the shock".

The fact that military spending continued to increase in a year with an economic downturn meant the "military burden", or the share of military spending out of total GDP, had increased as well.

The overall share rose from 2.2 percent to 2.4 percent, the largest year-on-year increase since the financial crisis of 2009.



As a result, more NATO members hit the Alliance's guideline target of spending at least two percent of GDP on their military, with 12 countries doing so in 2020 compared to nine in 2019.

There were however indications the pandemic had affected some countries. Nations such as Chile and South Korea openly decided to reappropriate military funds in response to the pandemic. "Other countries, such as Brazil and Russia, did not explicitly say this was reallocated because of the pandemic, but they have spent considerably less than their original budget for 2020," Lopes da Silva said.

DAY'S DIARY

Evacuation day

Pryp'yat', now a ghost town in northern Ukraine, began evacuating its 45,000 inhabitants on this day in 1986

DISASTER STRIKES

This was a day after a sudden surge of power during a reactor systems test destroyed Unit 4 of the nuclear power station at Chernobyl, Ukraine, in the former Soviet Union

ORIGIN STORY

Founded as the ninth 'atomgrad', a type of closed town to serve the nearby Chernobyl Nuclear Power Plant, it was nearest to the power plant at just under 2 miles away

IMMORTAL IN ART

The ghost or dead town has been widely featured in many works of pop culture, including the critically accalaimed HBO drama miniseries Chernobyl

THROUGH HER EYES

Actor Priyamani's new role in web series His Storyy has her playing a strong female lead, one who finds out the truth of her husband's sexual orientation after 20 years

MONIKA MONALISA

Priyamani's phone has not stopped buzzing in the past two days. Ever since the actor's latest web series, His Storyy, released on Alt Balaji and Zee5 on April 25, she has been flooded with congratulatory messages. The show has the actor playing the lead, a strong and independent woman named Sakshi, and also stars Satyadeep Mishra and Mrinal Dutt. The story unfolds around the dilemma that Priyamani's character goes through when she figures out the sexual orientation of her husband of 20 years.

And it is this unique story line that made Priyamani agree to the project. While the show is titled His Storyy, it also dwells on the female lead's perspective. "When I heard the narration, it was interesting to know that the story was from the girl's perspective. This meant she had a strong role to play. It was a journey of her being hurt when she found out the truth and how she coped with it," says Priyamani, who featured alongside Shah Rukh Khan in the viral 1234 Get On The Dancefloor track in Chennai Express. The actor has always been an ally of the LGBTQ community and she wanted to use this story to send out a message. "At the end of the day, love is love. Everyone is just looking for acceptance," she says, adding that she was the first actor to be finalised for the show, a fact she could not have been happier about.

The show also ran into a controversy but not for its bold storyline. Before it started streaming, there was a plagiarism issue with a poster that was released. Priyamani clarifies that artistes are hardly included in such creative works. "But when the topic came up and Balaji decided to bring down the initial poster, it said volumes about their integrity. They didn't go ahead and defend it, rather they gave out a public apology," says Priyamani, who made her OTT debut in 2019 with The Family Man.

The 36-year-old calls the series a game changer, giving her the confidence to explore more OTT platforms. "Back in 2019, OTT was still coming up, and it was my husband who encouraged me to take up the project since it was opposite Manoj Bajpayee," recalls Priyamani, adding that digital platforms are a new-age source of entertainment that are here to stay.

While she is riding high on the success of her latest web series, her heart will never stray far from movies. "Currently, I am looking forward to the release of The Family Man 2. There is another web series I have signed. I also have two Telugu movies in the pipeline," she says.

Coming up!

While The Family Man 2 is all set to release, Priyamani is working on another web series and two Telugu movies back to back. That's plenty to look forward to.

> On OTT, content becomes the hero. As actors we are always hungry for doing new work and these platforms give you that.

PUPPY LOVE

These are tough and uncertain times but actor Aindrita Ray has found a huge stress buster in her pet. The caption to the Instagram video of her enjoying some quality time on her terrace with her dog, her husband Diganth Manchale, and a cup of coffee reads, "You make it better...". Aww!

With dates for second PUC practical exams being postponed, experts pitch in on ways to handle academic pressure in such times

Marked by uncertainty

> With practical examinations rescheduled, I feel it will only make us more anxious. Preparing for practicals through online classes will not give the right exposure
> Pranav Suresh

SANATH PRASAD

Examinations have always been a matter of worry and fear for most students. More so when it occurs in the middle of an overwhelming caseload of the Covid-19 pandemic. But, while finding a balance between academics and health is one challenge, fluctuating schedules and examination dates also bring with them a sense of uncertainty. Case in point, the practical examinations for second PU science students in Karnataka.

Slated to start this week, they have now been postponed to mid-June, in light of the second wave. Pranav Suresh, a PCMC student, laments that focusing on preparations is difficult when the dates of the examinations change often. "It has been a year since the pandemic set in. Many examinations have been advanced and postponed since then. With practical examinations rescheduled this time, I feel it will only make us more anxious. Preparing for practicals through online classes will not give the right exposure," says Suresh, who is also struggling with concentration amid the health crisis.

Arjun Achaar, a PCME student, believes the situation was inevitable and revision must keep going. "Health was a major concern before. But, we are following the right protocols to ensure we are fit. Managing the sudden change in examination dates is tough but that should not stop us from preparing," says Achaar, who has disconnected himself from news channels for the past few months in order to focus better.

This move seems to be recommended by experts too. Ali Khwaja, career counsellor and founder of Banjara Academy, says, "Students must first focus on preparing for examinations. Consuming too much of Covid-19 related news will hamper their schedule and divert their attention," says Khwaja.

Dr Roshan Jain, psychiatrist at Apollo Hospital, says many students have consulted him due to the mounting academic pressure. His advice? "Take fitness breaks, socialise more virtually, study only relevant information on the web and avoid reading negative news."

Hema Sriharsha, an academic mentor, adds, "It takes time to take in the scenario and learn to be patient with it. It is psychological in nature and accumulates sub-conscious tension. Here, parents and educators from institutions can give students hope to keep preparing and keep their spirits high."

EXPERT ADVICE

- Spend time on offline activities like reading books, exercising and pursuing your hobbies
- Avoid consuming too much of Covid-19 related news while preparing for exams
- Don't lose sleep; ensure a minimum of seven hours of sleep daily

Dr Roshan Jain

- Maintain a healthy diet by consuming fresh fruits and vegetables and drink water at regular intervals

Ali Khwaja

- Watch some movies or comedy shows, or listen to music to beat the stress

City-based accessory brand Ruban's new collection shines the spotlight on silver, with a range of minimalistic jewellery that complements the work-from-home lifestyle

SILVER LINING

EXPRESS FEATURES

There's nothing like pearls or crystals to cheer up a girl's dull mood. Add silver to the mix and you've got a winner. A combination of these three can never disappoint a jewellery lover, believes entrepreneur Chinu Kala. She is the founder of accessory brand Rubans, which has recently launched its new collection of silver jewellery, which has pearls and crystal embedded in it.

The collection comprises a range of earrings, bracelets and pendants. Kala believes that with the work-from-home lifestyle, people's preferences and taste in jewellery is slowly changing. "Staying indoors is common these days. People are slowly moving away from heavy jewellery and going towards minimalistic daily wear. Our new collection will give ample choice for that," says Kala, adding that the range starts from ₹600 and goes up to ₹10,000.

It was a conscious decision for the brand to keep the pricing of the jewellery in what they call the affordable range, since people are becoming practical shoppers these days. Kala believes silver jewellery is a better pick than gold or other expensive options in these times of uncertainty, especially since financial and job security is questionable. "With the financial market having suffered a hard hit during the Covid-19 crisis, people are looking at better ways of investing than gold. This is where silver jewellery comes in handy with its pricing and style," says Kala, who believes there are no designs that cannot be made with silver.

While many might have apprehensions about maintaining silver accessories, Kala assures it to be a simple process. "The best way is to avoid overexposing it to air and water. There is something called micro-polishing, which we do to bring the shine back," she says, adding that the new line is on display on the official website.

FIT BIT

URDHVA PADMASANA

(UPWARD LOTUS POSE)

In Sanskrit, urdhva means 'upward,' padma means 'lotus,' and asana means 'posture.' This is one of the challenging inverted postures in yoga. It is just opposite to Padmasana (Lotus posture). The body is balanced with the hands, with the legs postured in Padmasana. This asana can be practised if you have a good mastery over Sarvangasana (Shoulder stand pose). It is considered as the extension of Sarvangasana. With the inverted nature of the posture, the body is balanced in a different way unlike the other asanas. Here, you have to support the body by holding the knees. Spiritually, this asana is associated with Vishuddhi (Throat) Chakra, which is the starting point of Udana Prana.

STEPS

- First, lie down flat on your back. Keep the hands a little away from the thighs.
- Then, keep your legs stretched out, tightened at the knees. Place the hands by the side of the legs, palms down.
- Now, take a few deep breaths. Exhale slowly and raise both legs together, bringing them at a right angle to the body. Remain in this position and inhale, keeping the legs steady.
- Exhale, raising the legs further up by lifting the hips and back from the floor, pressing the palms gently against the floor.
- When the whole trunk is raised off the ground, bend the elbows and place the palms on the ribs, resting the shoulders well on the floor, which is called Sarvangasana.
- Now, fold your legs to form the Padmasana.
- Then, bend the folded leg so that it is parallel to your face and place your hands on knees for support.
- Stay in this posture for five deep breaths or half a minute.
- To release, bring the hands down to the floor, palms facing down. Slowly, exhale and lower the spine down.

BENEFITS

- It helps to strengthen the arms and shoulders.
- Regular practice stretches the neck and trunk muscles.
- Good posture to massage the abdominal organs.
- Useful practice for strengthening the back muscles.
- Helps to make the wrists flexible.
- Gain the balancing of the mind through this posture as this is a balancing, inverted asana.
- Stimulates the brain and calms the mind down.
- Helps for concentration and mental awareness increases.
- It cures digestive and gastric disorders.
- Aids the digestion and improves the oxygenation process.
- It is good for the thyroid glands.

LIMITATIONS

- People with asthma, neck/ shoulder injuries should avoid this.
- If you have hip/back/leg injuries, don't practise this.
- People suffering with acute headache or high blood pressure should avoid this.

Galerie Sara Arakkal's new virtual show exhibits a mix of acrylic on canvas, mixed media on leather and iron sculptures, all created by artists during the lockdown last year

COVID CREATIONS

AYESHA TABASSUM

WITH the second wave wreaking havoc in our lives, it's great to find relief in art. Galerie Sara Arakkal's online show An Expression In Art 2021 Part II goes live at the most apt time. The virtual show features paintings, mixed media work and sculptures by 13 artists. These artworks were created by the featured artists during the lockdown last year, and have finally found a platform to be showcased.

Gallerist Sara Arakkal says, "When we were hosting offline shows at the gallery, we would usually exhibit work by up to 60 artists in a year. The pandemic put our plans on hold, and we chose to go online. Part two of this show features new work created by artists during these testing times. There is no theme because we feel a theme will restrict an artist's creativity." The featured artists include names such as Anirban Sheth, Azis TM, Bharati Sagar, Humera Ali, Kalidas B Sonar, Mani M Mani, Prakash Nayak, Ramu Maredu, Rani Rekha, Sandhya K Sirsi, Saravana, Sheelvanth Yadgiri and Sultana Hasan.

Their work explores subjects of extinction of certain animals, rapid urbanisation, nature, still life and abstracts. Anirban's work is quite interesting. He has used chrome-tanned leather with mixed media to create Salute to Corona Warriors, and for Love with Roses, he has experimented with leather dyes and acrylic on leather. "His attempt at using leather is quite new and was reason enough to include in our group show. We always look for such experiments, but that said, all our artists' have interesting work, so I cannot choose one over the other," says Arakkal. Another artist to watch out is Ramu Maredu. His acrylic on canvas artworks are bright and vibrant, and explore the idea of dynamic urbanisation.

The exhibition is on until May 10.

ON World Book Day that was celebrated recently on April 23, many posted about their favourite books, anecdotes, pictures of their bookshelves, selfies with books, videos of themselves reading from literary works etc. This brought to memory how so many public events would be held across Bengaluru on this day. There would be book launches, gatherings of book lovers, book sales and expos with great discounts, recitals and what not. Most of us would be deciding on which programme to attend, while some just went ahead and event-hopped. For many bibliophiles in Bengaluru and tier-2 cities of the State, book-related events have been the best way to meet like-minded people and expand their horizons. These get-togethers usually dragged hours after the event concluded, wherein one could see people having animated conversations in small groups, some even extending to lunch or dinner. One would be never alone at a book fair. There would be so many familiar faces greeting you, dragging along heavy bags filled with all the books they could afford.

Not the case anymore, I say, quoting Bob Dylan, "For the times, they are a-changin'". The pandemic has altered the face of the world. Since March 2020, life as we knew it turned upside down. We did try to bring back a semblance of it once it subsided but people around us were not the same. Now, the gigantic second wave is here, wreaking havoc. All this while, I have been reading numerous articles on how not being able to socialise has affected people enormously, as they struggle with loss, trauma and apprehension. Readers across the world have been changing too, trying to get their fix via social media, online gatherings, audiobooks, e-books, podcasts etc.

Omprakash H L is a young techie I know who has shouldered the enormous responsibility of digitising Kannada works. He has made literature accessible to everyone and has digitalised more than 6,000 books till date. He says, "Yes, the pandemic has definitely influenced avid readers to turn towards online sources. People are talking about books on social media and have been writing short reviews to introduce books. They have started quoting sources to find books. Ordering hard copies is easier as we have embraced e-commerce platforms. I would say this pandemic resulted in a viral spread of good habits like book reading, literary research and more." Earlier we used to meet writers. Now they are live on our phones, tabs and desktops. We have got closer than before. Serious readers have been using gadgets to get smarter, he adds.

Many readers say they have been waiting for things to get back to normal. We know it won't be the same. We will be treading on eggshells. "Most importantly, these testing times have pushed youngsters to read more. I suppose we will have a strong reason to hope when we emerge from this, albeit scarred," pings Rajendra Prasad, a publisher, as he updates me on his latest read.

WE'RE back where we were a year ago: Schools are closed and kids are at home, unable to meet their friends or participate in outdoor activities while a general cloud of uncertainty hangs over everything.

As parents and caregivers, we're trying to create meaningful experiences for our children, while keeping them safe, and keeping everyone's mental health intact. It's hard, especially when we're trying to balance a million different things, and we don't have the luxury of time to plan a million wholesome at-home activities and spend all day with our kids.

Here are some ideas we put together on what kids can do with music to stay positive and build their (virtual) communities this summer:

- Create playlists: Many streaming services allow you to make custom playlists. Make one and share it with your friends, or you can even make it with your friends. You can have different playlists for moods or times of day - be creative and discover new favourite songs together!
- Join a class together: Whether you want to learn an instrument, or sing bhajans, or learn pop songs, everything is more fun with friends. Most music schools, including ours, will put friends together in the same batch if you ask.
- Music making apps: There are many apps available on Android and iOS that you can use to make music together. Be a DJ, composer or instrumentalist! Choose a drum loop, pick some chords, sing a line on top of it. Have fun being creative.
- Practice challenges: If you're already learning music, have a summer practice challenge with your friends. See if you can each work on music two hours a day. Check in and motivate each other and share your progress. At the end of a week share a recording. At the end of the month post a video!
- Virtual band: Though there are definitely challenges to making music together online, but if you can work around then, start a virtual band! Discuss the music together on calls, take turns playing, record separately and share.

Have fun with the process and be creative!

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

OF MANGOES AND THE TASTE OF LOVE

SUMMER is here and with it mangoes. Now, there probably are some people around somewhere who really dislike mangoes or even are allergic to something in mangoes. But for the vast majority of us, at least here in India, mangoes are love. It is the stuff of poetry and music.

There is something very sensual about mangoes and that sensuality has been used in mango flavoured drinks, ice cream and all kinds of things, often unrelated to mango itself. The shape, texture and flavours of mangoes are hugely varied. Some are small and sweet, and others are huge like the Salem gundu mangoes. Some are great raw and need to be had with salt and chillies, or better when pickled. Some mangoes are to be grated and cooked with spices, mixed in rice and others are lovely baked with fish.

Aren't we as people as varied as all that? Not all of us are the sweetest around, and some of us do need a bit of pickling before we are really at our best. Some of us can take a bit of rough handling like the thick-skinned varieties of mangoes that go into making the fiery avakai pickles, while others are fragile and need very gentle handling, and bruise easily like Alphonso mangoes or badami mangoes - great when they have been gently handled, but a messy mush if tossed around.

The trick is always to know which one needs to be handled which way, and with mangoes, generations of farmers and consumers have learned how to see them for what they are and have the best mango experience. With people, it is not so easy. We have had millennia with people, far more than we possibly have had with mangoes, and yet we probably understand how to pick the right mango for the purpose at hand, than we know how to tell what sort of people we are with and how to really be with them. We could look at a mango and in a heartbeat tell whether it would be great to eat ripe, or whether to eat raw, or cook it, but we could be with people for decades and still not be able to quite understand them - are we supposed to leave each other well alone, or be friends with each other. Is there something more, maybe even a really special connection that we can count on?

If we were like mangoes, life might have been that much easier, but would it have been as interesting? If we could look at a person and immediately know what role we would have in each other's lives, would we really have been happier, or are we actually more satisfied with the way things are now, that we need to muddle around, never quite knowing, making many mistakes on the way? Much as we think we might like life different from how things are, maybe love should be mysterious and maybe the mangoes are just where love is that much more straightforward.
